Preservation Plans For Coventry Farm Approved by Board

Last week's Planning Board action brought the preservation of Princeton Township's Coventry Farm another step closer to completion.

The Board Thursday night gave its final approval to plans for Coventry Farm that would preserve as open space most of the 165-acre tract. The lands are located on both sides of The Great Road, just south of Princeton Day School and Stuart Country Day School.

The D&R Greenway, with financial help from private citizens and groups — as well as money from the Borough, Township, County and State — has arranged to purchase the property and eliminate most of the development that had been planned by Architect J. Robert Hillier.

The D&R Greenway expects to close the purchase of Coventry Farm on June 26. The farm is one of the largest remaining open space parcels in Princeton. It has been owned and operated by the Winant family since the 19th century.

The $9.5 million purchase price will be paid to the Winants and to Mr. Hillier, who has a contract to buy the land. In addition to $400,000 raised by neighbors of Coventry Farm, $1 million in funding is expected from the Township; $350,000 from the Borough; $1.5 million from the state; and $500,000 from Mercer County.

Mr. Hillier had envisioned the construction of 66 townhomes on the western tract, along with the creation of nine single family lots. In addition, 29.17 acres of woodlands were to have been dedicated to Princeton Township. A conservation easement was to be placed on the vast majority of the land on the eastern tract. The western tract contains 35.62 acres; the eastern tract 129 acres.

Under the plan approved Thursday by the Planning Board, 22.7 acres on the western side will be dedicated to Princeton Township for active recreation and 10.9 acres on the western side will be purchased by Princeton Day School. The

Vote Delayed on New Roger S. Berlind Theatre

It was as if the curtain had come down ten minutes before the end of the final act. Everyone sort of knew how the play would end, but absolute certainty was lacking.

This describes what happened at the Planning Board Thursday night, when Board members decided to stop deliberating and to continue the hearing on the McCarter Theatre addition on June 21.

The hour was approaching 11:30, and there was a sense that it was simply too late to determine and spell out the conditions that Board members would like to have included should they vote to approve. It appeared, however, that final major site plan approval would be granted if the conditions were satisfactory to McCarter.

The hearing will continue Thursday, June 21, at 9:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber of Borough Hall.

McCarter is proposing the construction of a 27,110-square-foot addition at the southern end of the existing theater which will house a new 350-seat theater, two rehearsal halls, and office and other space.

The $14.1 million facility, the Roger S. Berlind Theatre, will function as a second stage for McCarter and as the principal performance space for Princeton University's Program in Theater and Dance.

Artistic Director Emily Mann said the new theater had been a dream of hers since she joined McCarter 11 years ago. "It will be a great asset and resource for our community. We can expand our repertoire in classic theater and contemporary theater, and we can see these works in an intimate setting of 350 seats," she said.

Michael Cadden, director of the University's Program in Theater and Dance, said that every major University, except for Princeton, has a first stage. The program is now using 185 Nassau Street, but has outgrown the facility. The Berlind Theatre, he said, would be a "state-of-the-art theater where plays and musicals can be performed."

The proposed addition, designed by architect Hugh Hardy, will be nearly square in shape with a footprint measuring 115 feet by

Partly Sunny Skies For the Weekend

A fast moving cold front that passed through the area on Monday night produced strong thunderstorms and dumped nearly ½ inch of rain in some spots like Somerville.

According to the National Weather Service, Mercer County received a trace of rain, bringing rainfall totals for the past 30 days to just over 5.7 inches.

The weekend forecast as of Tuesday evening called for partly sunny skies on Saturday and Sunday. Highs are expected to be in the mid 80s both days, with lows in the lower 60s.

Agreement Reached on Senior Housing At Elm Court Now Faces Objections

As a proposed settlement of a lawsuit that had challenged the construction of additional senior housing at Elm Court was being heard last Wednesday in Superior Court, new objectors to the project came forward.

They are the Sierra Club and Rosedale Lane residents Richard Barrett and Tim Patrick-Miller. The two home owners and the environmental group, represented by Attorney William Potter, have cited environmental concerns about the project.

In addition, three residents of neighboring Hunt-Winfield are objecting that the deed restriction barring development on the proposed senior housing site is also in the title to their property.

Early in 1999, a group of property owners living adjacent to the proposed senior housing brought a lawsuit against Princeton Community Housing, which had announced plans to build an expansion of Elm Court, the senior and handicapped affordable housing complex on Elm Road. The suit also named Princeton Borough, Princeton Township, and the Regional Planning Board.

It raised issues of environmental constraints on the site, alleged the actions of the defendants violated municipal land use law, and raised the issue of the deed restriction on the site.

The agreement that was presented to Superior Court Judge Linda Feinberg last week sets a limit of 68 on the total of new units that may be built in the Elm Court addition. It also provides that no additional housing be constructed on the site after the addition is completed.

In addition, it modifies elevations of the proposed wings facing Hunt-Winfield to eliminate third floor end units and create sloped roof lines.

The bicycle path would remain in its existing location, to be buffered with berms and landscaping, and all exterior and emergency lighting would be screened from the view of neighboring properties.

The balance of undeveloped open space will be protected by conservation easement, and no parking or loading zones will be permitted on the north or west sides of the buildings.

Regarding the settlement agreement, Princeton Community Housing Attorney Mark Solomon said that there was hard work on both sides. "Everyone pitched in and came to an acceptable compromise. It was an admirable effort, a community-based effort."

He said the site of the new housing is an old Borough sewer field that was also an unauthorized but heavily used dump. "Princeton Community Housing cleaned it up when it built Elm Court. It was a degraded site, and they now claim it is some last great wilderness.

"I think the people in Hunt-Winfield have a right to be heard," added Mr. Solomon. "But as for Mr. Barrett, Mr. Patrick-Miller and the Sierra Club, their energies are gravely misplaced."

At a Planning Board meeting last May, Mary Penney of the Sierra Club announced that the group opposed the senior housing. Her statement cited "the environmental and historical significance of this area, and the diversion of public open space for private use."

Mr. Solomon noted that probably only three acres of the 7.4 acre site will be used for the housing.

Last week's hearing in front of Judge Feinberg was a step in the process to settle the litigation, said Mr. Solomon. The judge is giving the objectors to the settlement an opportunity to present their concerns. She will review their papers and is expected to hear arguments on September 19.

Princeton Community Housing built Elm Court senior housing in 1985 on Borough-owned land in Princeton Township. Its 89 units include several apartments for the handicapped.

The housing is open to those whose income is up to 80 percent of the maximum, thus serving both low- and moderate-income tenants. The new addition would follow this same schedule, providing rental apartments for both low- and moderate-income seniors.

Retiring Riverside Teachers Celebrate Friendship of the School Community

Last week, the Riverside School community held a "Celebration of Friendship" for four Riverside teachers who will retire this month — Andrea Bonett, Nancy Johnson, Carol Lang, and Nancy Greico. Between them, they have taught for well over 100 years. "They are just spectacular people," according to Riverside Principal Bill Cirullo.

Ms. Greico, a speech therapist, is not strictly speaking a Riverside teacher, since she also teaches two days at Princeton High School. According to Mr. Cirullo, however, "She has been a fabulous friend for many years," and Riverside considers her one of its own.

To have all four teachers leave at the same time is quite a blow, Mr. Cirullo said, and not typical. "Usually, we can count on one or two teachers retiring, but not four at once. We kept our good-bye party light and festive, however."

"I never thought people would clap because I was leaving!" joked Ms. Johnson, who teaches second grade. Describing herself as a student for her entire 25-year teaching career, Ms. Johnson is pursuing a doctorate in English language arts from Rutgers University.

TOPICS Of the Town

"I learned just as much from collaboration with colleagues and from the children as I did from the college classroom," Ms. Johnson commented.

Her first 12 years were spent in West Windsor, followed by 13 years in the Princeton Regional School District. Her career has been mostly with elementary school students — either teaching second graders or a multigrade class of second and third grade students, but she has also taught teacher-assessment courses to college seniors at Rider University.

"The Princeton population is so richly-textured," Ms. Johnson says, "that it's different every year. I've learned so much from the extended community."

Kindergarten teacher Carol Lang, completing her 14th year in the regional district, is just as enthusiastic. "The diversity of parents is as stimulating, as is sharing with the children," she said.

"I have felt very linked to many families here," commented Ms. Johnson. "Parents whose children have left the school even came in from the past to the party."

Both teachers said that after retirement, they will miss the diversity that has enriched their lives at Riverside.

[The school draws children from families at the Institute for Advanced Study and Princeton Theological Seminary, as well as from the University, making the student body an international population.]

34 Years in Princeton Schools

Andrea Bonett has taught in the Princeton Regional School district for a total of 34 years. A third grade teacher at Riverside, she has taught grades 3-6 in varying combinations, including all of them together.

She started her career at the John Witherspoon Middle School — when it was an elementary school. [The "Big Switch" to middle school occurred in 1970.]

A Stanford University graduate with a master's degree from the University of California at Berkeley, Ms. Bonett said she was hired "over the phone" and never came for an interview. "I knew so little about Princeton, I thought at first it was in Connecticut!" she recalled recently.

The "fourth-generation Californian" is now so involved in New Jersey life, however, that she is running for a third term. She presently serves as mayor of East Amwell Township (Hunterdon County).

One good thing about retirement is that she will soon be able to devote all her energies to campaigning and will no longer have to juggle her teaching and her political careers.

In addition, she hopes to go to Australia and to spend time at her home at the Jersey shore. She also wants to write a book about her teaching experiences.

1948, I have been preparing for school," she told TOWN TOPICS. "I think it's time for a break!"

She's not saying she will not miss Riverside, particularly the excitement of producing plays with her students. Some plays that she and the students have produced recently have included Charlie & the Chocolote Factory, Rainbow Crow, and Historicof Hysterio.

"It is a great experience to put on plays," she explained, "because it brings out pieces of the kids you don't ordinarily see in class." She also loves teaching science and has managed to incorporate much scientific information into her third grade curriculum.

All the teachers say that teaching has brought them a lot of happiness. "Every day is a celebration," according to Ms. Johnson.

She never wanted to do anything but teach, she says, ever since the age of 2 or 3, when she sat on her front steps holding a book and pretending to read to the neighborhood children.

A seventh grade teacher who told her she would be a good teacher provided the impetus for Ms. Lang. She has taught kindergarten for the last 14 years, she says, because it is exciting to see the way young children express the joy of learning.

Ms. Bonett, who did her student teaching in West Oakland, during the late 1960's, in the days of the Black Panthers, Civil Rights unrest, and the War on Poverty, has learned over the years that children in every time — and from every place — are "pretty much all the same" and are educable, if properly taught.

Summer Reading To Begin at Mary Jacobs

Registration for the 2001 Summer Reading Club at the Mary Jacobs Library, 64 Washington Street, Rocky Hill, will begin on Monday, June 18 and will run through August 17, for children ages 2 to 12.

Children may register at any time during the program and will receive a calendar to log their reading time — or read-to-me time — at home.

Members are encouraged to check once a week at the library to record their time and receive small prizes and weekly raffle tickets. Trivia games and incentive prizes will change each week; and special programs take place.

Each child who reads for at least 500 minutes will be able to choose a new paperback book, donated by the Friends of Mary Jacobs Library. Local merchants have donated a number of prizes to be awarded at the weekly drawings.

Older readers, in grades six and up, will have their own program, Extreme Earth, and will earn a paperback of their choice, after reading three books.

They, too, will received prizes donated by local businesses.

@yourlibrary Outlines Programs And Summer Events

While the staff of the Princeton Public Library prepares to move into temporary quarters at the Princeton Shopping Center, they will also do a lot more this summer than just packing boxes.

The library has 80 events planned for the summer, ranging from the traditional story hours and summer reading clubs to a film series, musical performances, and a celebration of human-powered vehicle.

The events are listed in the library's new program guide, @your library. The publication shares the catch phrase of the Campaign for America's Libraries, a five-year initiative of the American Library Association, designed to highlight the diversity of the contemporary library experience.

"Our summer schedule certainly showcases what the campaign is all about," said Library Director Leslie Burger.

"Where else could you find a discussion of the most popular books, a performance by an up-and-coming songwriter and a bike festival, all for free? And all of this at a time when we're preparing to build what will be one of the top public libraries in the country. It is truly an exciting time for our patrons to be at their library.

June highlights will include the June 15 launching of summer reading clubs for children, teens, and adults.

The library's film and discussion series about the '50s, titled "Post War Years/Cold War Fears," will continue June 3, and 20.

July Events

Programming for kids, teens, and families will shift into high gear in July. There will be multiple-session workshops examining self-expression through movement (ages 3 to 5, beginning July 5); the role of light in art and science (ages 6 to 9, beginning July 9); and mime and theater improvisation (ages 6 to 9, beginning July 31).

The Yo-Yo man, a.k.a. Ted Redmond, will cover yo-yo history and offer tips and tricks in an interactive program at 7:30 on July 31.

Singer-songwriter Billy Jonas, whose performances on found objects have brought cheers from critics and audiences, will perform at 3:30 on July 24.

Other July events will include The Great Family Book Trivia Game at 7, Thursday, July 26, and CyberSurfari, an Internet picks-and-pans program designed for kids ages 12 and older, at 7:30 Wednesday, July 18.

August programs will start with Wheel Fest, a celebration of human-powered vehicles of all sorts, at 3:30 Friday, August 3, at Pettoranello Gardens in Community Park North.

A decorated-bicycle parade, an antique-bikes display, bicycle information from the state Department of Transportation, and other surprises are planned. Rain date is Friday, August 10.

Meetings of the library's popular book discussion groups and reading clubs will close out summer at the library. For more information, visit www.princetonlibrary.org.

Police Seek Suspect For Identity Theft

Borough police are searching for a suspect who used a 30-year-old Nassau Street resident's personal information to open various charge accounts and acquire a mortgage.

Police said the victim came to police headquarters on June 8 at around 5 p.m. She was first aware of the crime on May 16 when she was contacted by a Bridgewater Township police officer investigating a case of forgery.

In that incident, a driver's license was forged in the victim's name to open a Home Depot charge account. The person fled the store when the clerk contacted the police after discovering that the license was forged.

Subsequently, the victim discovered by running a credit check on herself, that several retail charge accounts were opened fraudulently from Target, Kohls, Capital One and Loanworks ($125,000 mortgage). All of the accounts showed either balance due or were in default.

At the time of the June 8 report, it was not known where the accounts were opened, nor was it known how the person obtained the victim's personal information.

Woman Accused In Theft at PU Store Was Ex Employee

A 36-year-old former employee at the Princeton University Store, University Place, was arrested on June 5 for stealing cash from the store.

Police said Barbara Sherry Coleman of Monmouth Junction allegedly stole $140 from a register on May 30, and $40 from a register on May 31. She was processed at police headquarters and was released on her own recognizance. She worked at the store until May 31.

Someone stole an $11,000 golf cart from the Engineering Quadrangle at Princeton University between 2:30 p.m. June 9, and 4:30 a.m. June 10. It was later found in Princeton Township on Riverside Drive near Balsalm Lane.

Police said someone entered a 21-year-old Princeton University student's dorm room at Foulke Hall and stole a $3000 Apple G3 laptop computer. The incident occurred between 7:30 a.m. and 11:15 p.m. on June 6.

Someone entered the office suite of Chase Field on Hulfish Street and stole $100 cash from a desk drawer. The theft occurred between 7 p.m. June 4, and 12 p.m. June 5.

A Washington DC license plate was stolen from the front of a 45-year-old Princeton University employee's car between 12:30 p.m. May 25, and 3 p.m. June 4. Police said the car was parked on North Stanworth Drive.

DWI

Patrol officer Adam Basatemur investigated a motor vehicle accident that occurred on John Street June 9 at 10:13 p.m. Investigation revealed that Jose Luis Cruz-Medina, 19, of Birch Avenue, was driving his 1992 Jeep north on John Street and struck the curb near Green [illegible]

His vehicle then struck a tree and overturned before coming to a stop in the intersection of John and Green Street. He was taken to the Princeton Medical Center after complaining of back pain. He was later arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated and careless driving.

Borough sergeant Nick Sutter stopped a 1996 Chevrolet on Nassau Street June 7 after discovering the vehicle had a broken tail light. Subsequent to the stop, 34-year-old Edison resident Joseph Barna was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and for driving with a broken tail light. He was released on his own recognizance.

A 15-year-old Township teen was charged with juvenile delinquency theft on June 1 after police discovered he stole a Razor scooter from the football field of Princeton High School on Moore Street. The theft was initially reported on May 24 to Borough police by the 14-year-old victim, a student at the school. The accused juvenile was taken into custody and later released to his father.

Bicycle Thefts

Borough police reported three bicycle thefts that occurred recently.

A green and purple Trek 830 bicycle was stolen from the Firestone Library at Princeton University between May 9 at 8 p.m., and May 10 at 1 a.m.

A green, Trek 930 bicycle was stolen from Holder Courtyard at Princeton University between May 4 at 2 p.m., and May 5 at 3 p.m.

A blue MGX bicycle was stolen from 1939 Hall at Princeton University between 2 and 8 p.m. on May 18.

A $600 Sony camcorder was stolen from Scully Hall between 10 a.m. May 21, and 9 a.m. June 3.

Flag Day Ceremony June 14, Borough Hall

Spirit of Princeton will hold its annual Flag Day Ceremony Thursday, June 14 at noon at Borough Hall.

A feature of the event is the burning of flags that are no longer usable.

Ray Wadsworth, of Spirit of Princeton, said he has been given 300 flags for the ceremony. Mr. Wadsworth said that burning the flag is the only approved method for dealing with flags that no longer can be used.

The two Princeton mayors are also expected to be present at the event.

Summer Reading Clubs Will Begin Soon At the Library

There will be a whole lot of reading going on this summer at the Princeton Public Library, which will host summer reading clubs for children, teens and adults begging June 15.

Participants in all clubs will keep track of the number of hours they spend reading to qualify for rewards donated by Princeton merchants.

The children's club will have the theme "It's Your Move." The theme celebrates the library's upcoming move to temporary quarters while a new library is built.

Children can keep track of their reading milestones using a colorful "It's Your Move" game board with a transportation theme. The boards will be available June 15 in the Children's Room at the library.

"We thought it only fitting that this year's theme deal with moving, since this will be the final summer reading club we host in this building," said Jan Johnson, director of the library's Youth Services department.

"We'll have several events dealing with movement of one kind or another, like a decorated bike parade and a Creative Dramatics program called "The Magic of Movement."

The library's Teen Read Summer program, for children entering the sixth grade and above, will feature special events and a book discussion series in addition to a reading raffle for prizes.

Participants in the Book Lovers Reading Club for Adults will write reviews of books and audio books to qualify for prizes.

When registering at the Information Desk, readers will receive a Book Lovers Kit with book review forms, a library pencil, a Hershey's Kiss and a list of suggested summer reading and listening.

Participants may also register by e-mail to books@princetonlibrary.org.

The Princeton Public Library is at 65 Witherspoon Street. Special assistance is available for library patrons with disabilities. Those with special needs should contact the library 48 hours before any program to arrange for accommodations. Call 924-9529.

Keck Foundation Grant Given to Institute

The Institute for Advanced Study has received a grant of $1,500,000 from the W.M. Keck Foundation of Los Angeles. The grant supports a six-year research program in theoretical astrophysics.

The Keck "Explorations in Theoretical Astrophysics" encourages an effort within the Institute's School of Natural Sciences to understand some of the puzzles of modern observational astronomy using the tools of modern theoretical physics.

The program will train theoreticians at the interface of astronomy and physics, an area in which progress is rapid and qualified practitioners scarce.

The grant makes possible the appointment of five Keck members at the Institute, and one professorial level, sabbatical scientist. Active observational astronomers will be invited to visit the Institute for shorter periods of time.

There are five astrophysicists who have been named Keck Members working in the School of Natural Sciences this academic year: Anthony Aguirre, Alexander Friedland, Andrei Gruzinov, Joop Schaye and Sara Seager.

The Keck Foundation, headquartered in Los Angeles, Calif., was established in 1954 for general charitable purposes. It makes grants designed to provide far-reaching benefits for humanity in the fields of science, engineering, and medical research.

School Board Invites Public Comment On Construction Plans

At the school board meeting of June 19, an hour will be devoted to public input on the architects' preconstruction schedule for the referendum project, according to School Board President Charlotte Bialek.

The PRS facilities committee will meet at 10, on Thursday, June 14, at the Valley Road administration building, to review the schedule, according to Anne Burns, who chairs the committee. The public is also invited to sit in.

Paul Pezzutti of The Hillier Group architectural firm, and a representative of EPIC, the construction management company, will explain the steps that must be taken before ground can be broken in summer 2002.

There will not be much opportunity for questions on June 14, according to Ms. Burns; rather, it will be a chance to examine the "comprehensive flow chart" that Hillier has developed through July 1, 2002. On June 19, extensive discussion of the schedule will take place.

Ms. Bialek explained that once plans for each school site are finalized — anticipated in December — all kinds of other approvals must be obtained. The schedule includes approximate dates, for instance, at which approvals will be sought from the Elizabethtown Water Company, the Conservation Soil District, and other groups.

While Planning Board approval is not required for public school construction, the district will present plans to the board, as a courtesy. Township review is expected to take place in January.

"We will probably be seeking approvals through the end of March," Ms. Bialek predicted, "and will be ready to go out for bids next April."

The board meeting on June 19, she pointed out, will be the last formal meeting before August. "It will be a time for all of us to talk to the architect and construction manager," she said, "and to emphasize some of the design aspects that are important to us."

She noted, in particular, energy savings, adequate parking, sufficient drainage, and improved pick-up and drop-off arrangements.

"We will remind them that these are our concerns," the board president said, "and that the board is particularly interested in 'Green Schools' in which indoor air quality is maintained, as well as in alternative energy sources.

"We want to be sensitive to the environment," she emphasized, "and to use good materials. For instance, we want to be healthy acoustically. The well-being of all users is very important; and we will reiterate this interest to the architects."

The floor plans that were distributed previously were "schematics," Ms. Bialek said, that did not include a lot of detail. The architects must now focus on designing such features as doors, windows, and storage areas.

"The summer is a really critical period in which we will refine every aspect of the design," she said. Ms. Bialek added that in the fall there will be ample opportunity for public input, with a whole program of informative meetings.

Two Men Arrested For Burglary, Theft In Dorm Room

Two Spruce Street men were arrested on June 8 for burglary and theft.

Police said the victim, a 20-year-old Princeton University student, walked into his Henry Hall dorm room that was previously locked at 7 p.m. He found 23-year-old Marvin Giovanni Galindo and 37-year-old Dante Mendoza Salmoran inside the room.

Both men were carrying backpacks that contained a Dell Latitude Laptop computer and power adaptor valued at $2100, a $20 Microsoft mouse, and $180 in assorted CDs. The victim detained Galindo and Salmoran until Princeton University Department of Public Safety officers arrived. They called the Borough police.

Investigation revealed that both suspects entered the room through an open first floor window, and they were in the process of leaving the dorm room when confronted by the victim. Salmoran had a baggie of marijuana and a hacksaw in his possession. They were arrested and taken to Borough police headquarters for processing.

Galindo was charged with burglary, theft, theft of computer equipment, and for being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance.

Salmoran was charged with burglary, theft, theft of computer equipment, under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance, possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana under 50 g.), and possession of burglary tools.

Both men had bail set at $5000, and were transported to the Mercer County Jail.

GARDEN PESTS

The Bronze Birch Borer prefers to lay eggs on birch, preferably white, paper and gray, that are under stress; drought stress; heat stress (siled in full sun), compacted soil, etc.

...

The bullet shaped, metallic black adult beetles lay eggs on branches as well as the main trunks. Symptoms include dieback from the upper branch tips, working down the tree toward the base; sometimes ripples are noticed in tha bark.

...

Remember a borer is present because the tree is already under stress. Relieve stress as much as possible by watering in drought situations, mulching, fertilizing, controlling leafminer and pruning out deadwood (but not just prior to adult emergence, as adults are attracted to wounds to lay eggs).

...

Call us at WOODWINDS (924-3500) today to set up an IPM program for your garden, and leave the worrying to our technicians!!

Hillary Strasburger May Be Home Soon

Princeton High School freshman Hillary Strasburger — who was critically injured on June 3, when she flipped over the handlebars of her bicycle and hit her head — may be home by the end of the week, according to her father, Frank Strasburger.

The Rev. Strasburger, vice president of the Princeton Regional School Board and associate rector of Trinity Church, said on June 12, that his daughter is still in intensive care, but is progressing well.

Ms. Strasburger was first taken to the Capital Health System at Fuld and later transferred to Cooper Medical Center in Camden to that hospital's pediatric intensive care unit. On June 5, she was taken to Philadelphia Children's Hospital when her platelet count began dropping. "There is no pediatric hematologist at Cooper," the Rev. Strasburger explained.

There is no significant head injury, according to Mr. Strasburger, but the fact that Hillary suffered at least one minor stroke immediately after the fall — and perhaps another one when she was moved from Cooper — is cause for concern.

Her right arm at first appeared to be paralyzed after the injury, he said, but she is now able to move all the fingers of her right hand; and she is receiving physical therapy.

"She will remain in the hospital at least until the end of the week," Mr. Strasburger said. "The doctors want to determine why the stroke happened in the first place."

Coalition Seeks Funds For Carson Road Woods

Linda Mead, executive director of the Delaware & Raritan Greenway, Lawrence Township Mayor Pam Mount, and several local environmental action groups last week announced a program to acquire the 186-acre Carson Road Woods for preservation as open space.

The 186-acre former farm is the second largest undeveloped, unprotected tract remaining in Lawrence Township; and it is one of the very few large undeveloped properties in the greater Princeton area.

The woods lie in the center of the block bounded by Carson Road on the south, Carter Road on the west, Rosedale Road on the north, and Province Line Road to the east. It is largely a landscape of rolling farmland, but includes extensive areas of wetlands, and a large area forested with old growth-woodlands.

Since active agriculture ceased on the property, there have been a number of development proposals for Carson Woods. To date, all have been defeated through the intervention of neighborhood groups, especially the North Lawrence Citizens Association.

That association is participating with the Township and the Greenway in the present acquisition plan, as are the Lawrence Township Conservation Foundation and residents of Rosedale Acres.

The present owner, G. Rieder & Sons Inc. has indicated a willingness to sell the property for $8.4 million, if a contract commitment can be in place by June 30. Public sources for $5.4 million have been identified; and $1.5 million in private funds has already been pledged. The remaining $1.5 million remains to be raised.

Preservation of the Carson Road Woods as open space would provide a key connection with other public lands within the Stony Brook Greenway, stretching from Hopewell and the Sourlands to the Institute Lands in Princeton, according to Greenway officials.

Alzheimer's Patients Sought for Research

Over the past several years, three medications have been approved for the treatment of Alzheimer's Disease; all have the same mechanism of action — they inhibit an enzyme called cholinesterase.

Now another type of medicine is being evaluated, in a research study currently underway at the Psychopharmacology Research Association of Princeton and at 35 other sites in the country.

The goal of the study, which is sponsored by a major pharmaceutical company, is to determine whether memory is safely improved by the drug. The medication is not yet on the market in this country and its effectiveness has not been proven; it is on the market in some European countries.

Patients with memory loss thought to be due to Alzheimer's Disease, "senility," or "hardening of the arteries," may be eligible for the study.

To enter the study, patients must be 50 years or older, have moderate-to-severe progressive memory loss (dementia), and have a caregiver who will ensure that the patient takes the study medication and will visit the physician's office regularly with the patient.

Patients can continue on other Alzheimer's medicines (e.g., Aricept) while participating in this study.

The study involves up to 12 months of research treatment with the study medication, with medical evaluations, memory tests, laboratory tests, EKGs, a CAT Scan (if needed), and study medication, all free of charge.

Court Rejects Profiling

Police officers in New Jersey can ask questions if they see something suspicious, but they can't simply stop a person based on race, according to a state Supreme Court ruling handed down last week.

If defendants claim they were victims of racial profiling, the court said in its unanimous ruling, officers must prove that they were not biased. The ruling is the first New Jersey Supreme Court ruling on racial profiling, civil rights attorneys said.

Booster Seats Required

Booster seats would be required in cars for children age 8 and younger, under a bill approved last week by the state Senate. The legislation also would require anyone 18 and younger to wear seat belts anywhere in the car.

Booster seats — designed for children too big for car seats — allow seat belts made for adults to also fit smaller people. Current law requires children 18 months and younger to be in car seats, and children five and younger to wear seat belts.

Last year a study in the journal Pediatrics indicated that children who weigh less than 80 pounds and who wear seat belts are nearly four times more likely to be injured seriously in crashes than those in safety or booster seats.

The legislation now heads to acting Governor Donald T. DiFrancesco for his signature.

Assembly Aids Fishermen

The NJ Assembly Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee released a bill last week that would ban out-of-state commercial fishing within three miles of the coast. The action came in response to testimony that commercial fishing operations are destroying the population of menhaden, a forage fish that serves as food for sport fish, crabs, and some birds.

Commercial fishermen protested that the bill will cost jobs, hurt productivity, and illegally discriminate against out-of-state fishermen. The bill's sponsor, Assemblyman Steve Corodemus (R.-Atlantic Highlands), countered that the measure, "preserves New Jersey's mom-and-pop-based industry and provides for New Jersey sport fishing for years to come."

Contaminated Property

The state Senate Environment Committee released a bill on June 11 that would extend the 10-year statute of limitations for state civil actions against the owners — or former owners — of contaminated properties.

The law establishing the 10-year limit took effect in 1992, when there were 12,000 properties on the state's roster of contaminated sites. Today, 3,000 sites remain on the roster.

If the bill becomes law, the state would have an additional three years to mandate cleanups or to recover costs in cases where state funds were used to clean up sites.

A spokeswoman for the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) said she expects all remaining sites will be finished within three years. Critics of the bill say it does not force state environmental regulators to pursue actions against the sites in a timely manner.

"Firefly Parade" At the Watershed

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, located on Titus Mill Road in Hopewell Township, is offering "Exploring the Night: Firefly Parade" for families and adults on Tuesday June 26 from 8:30 to 10.

During the walk, participants will enjoy the annual light show provided by several species of fireflies. They will learn about firefly lifestyles while using scratch board to map their flash patterns across the beautiful scenery.

The cost of the program is $5 for Watershed members and $8 for non-members. Pre-registration is required by June 26th and enrollment is limited. For more information or to register, call the Buttinger Nature Center at 737-7592.

Township to Begin Enforcing Brush/Leaf Pick-up Regulations

Township Committee members agreed at their meeting on June 11, to begin immediately enforcing monthly clean-up regulations.

According to Township Engineer Robert Kiser, the "excessive" size of the logs and branches put out for the municipality's monthly clean-up program has damaged Township trucks. Materials placed in the street, rather than along the edge of the road — as mandated — have also caused safety hazards, Mr. Kiser said.

Logs and branches placed on top of utility boxes, such as water and gas shut-offs and sewer clean-outs, have damaged homeowners' utility services, he added; and the pick-up operation cannot operate efficiently because logs and branches are not piled separately and are not easily accessible.

Dennis Sullivan, of the Public Works Department, said damaged trucks and hydraulic lifts take several days to repair. He added that drivers have even been hit by branches and brush too large for them to handle.

Program Regulations

Regulations, effective immediately, limit the size of branches and logs to four feet in length and one foot in diameter. Also, they mandate placement along the edge of the road and not on the rood povement.

Branches and logs must be placed in separate piles, in an easily accessible location; and they must not be placed near or over utility boxes, such as gas and water shut-offs, or sewer clean-outs.

Materials should, in addition, be put out on the weekend before the scheduled week of collection. The Township will not pick up lumber, appliances, furniture, grass, metal, or dirt.

The Public Works Department also, will no longer pick up any material from residents who do not follow the regulations. They will, instead, issue a notice to homeowners, advising them why their items were not picked up.

Homeowners who receive a notice, will be asked to comply with the regulations and to reschedule a pick-up. Pick-up dates for the remainder of the year will be: week of June 18; week of July 16; week of August 20; week of September 17; and week of October 15.

Committeeman Roger Frakt suggested that homeowners should inform their landscape firms about the regulations, and said he hoped that by educating the landscapers, some of the pick-up problems could be solved. "Perhaps we should institute a registration of landscapers," he added, "so they can be held responsible — or at least equally responsible with the homeowner."

Township Administrator James Pascale noted that the Township's regulations are not unusual in any way, and that the homeowner is responsible for compliance. "The time has come for enforcement," he insisted.

To a question concerning the length of time needed to complete the Township's brush and leaf pick-up, Mr. Sullivan said that if regulations were followed, the job should be completed within five to seven days.

Residents who would like more information may call the Public Works Department at 921-7077; or visit the Township website at www.princetontwp.org, go to "Departments," then to "Engineering."

Nassau Inn Request for Extension Is Granted by Planning Board

Concerned about possible changes in zoning ordinances that would adversely affect approval of an addition to the Nassau Inn, Palmer Square officials requested from the Planning Board, and received, a one-year extension of the period of protection from such changes.

The Planning Board has the power to grant extension of the period of protection if the application was prevented from proceeding due to delays in obtaining legally required extra-municipal approvals.

According to Attorney Thomas Letizia, the Nassau Inn owners are not ready to go forward with construction of the hotel addition because of unforeseen delays in obtaining the necessary state Department of Transportion and Department of Community Affairs approvals.

The one year period of protection extension is retroactive to December 17, 2000.

In September, 1998, the Planning Board granted final site plan approval to a six-story addition to the Nassau Inn on Hulfish Street. The building would include 2,880 square feet of retail space; an expanded ballroom; 400 new square feet of meeting space; and 32 new guest rooms.

The Nassau Inn addition is one of two missing links in the final development of Palmer Square/Hulfish North. The other missing piece is the construction of 97 residential units on Paul Robeson Place. Approval for this was granted by the Planning Board in the early '80s.

Princeton Borough officials are anxious to see the residential units constructed, and have been negotiating with representatives of Palmer Square. A major stumbling block has been Palmer Square's reluctance to meet the Borough's affordable housing requirement.

At the Thursday night Planning Board meeting, Mayor Marvin Reed said there were still some questions on the Nassau Inn and Palmer Square plans, but not as many as before.

Some of the discussions have been aimed at setting up a timetable for the whole redevelopment plan, beginning with the Nassau Inn and going to the full completion of the rest of the project, said Mr. Reed.

He added that he is seeking a commitment on the part of Palmer Square that not only includes submitting plans but also spells out dates of implementation.

Business & Professional Women to Meet June 18

Personal Image consultant Niurka Coy-Bush will speak at the next meeting of Princeton Business and Professional Women, on June 18, on "Your Personal Image: Making the Most with What You Have."

Officers will also be installed at the meeting, which will take place at Tre Piani in Forrestal Village, Route 1 South, starting at 6, with networking.

The formal program will begin at 7:30. The cost is $28 for members; $31, for guests. Reservations must be made by Thursday, June 14. Call Carolyn Hingher, at 921-8324; or email: chingher@calipercorp.com.

Montgomery House Offers Older Kids Summer Arts Camp

"The 1860 House Summer Art Camp is renowned for the high quality of its teachers and programs and has established a reputation as the premier arts camp for ages 4½ to 12," says Larry Shiller, president of the 1860 House, Montgomery Cultural Center Board of Trustees.

"This year we are appealing to a larger segment of the community by offering new classes for early teens that focus on their specific developmental needs and interests."

Camp begins June 25 and runs through August 17, offering week-long morning camps based on a different theme each week, and a myriad of two- to four-day afternoon workshop-style classes.

Classes

Collaborations, a four-day class, comprises skills in sculpture, spatial relationships, and team-building to forge an environmental installation using natural materials.

Monuments, a two-day class, will explore individual ideals as the basis for creating a personal monument.

Shrines is another class in which students will use things or individuals of personal relevance as a basis for sculptures.

In Pinhole Photography, taught by the New Jersey Printmaking Council, students will build their own cameras as well as make photographs; also, there are Puppetmaking, and Silk Painting, and several Clay classes for the older camper to try.

In the performing arts arena, there is a two-week Theater Workshop as well.

Sara Dykstra, instructor of Monuments and Shrines, among other classes, says, "The focus of all my courses is to allow the students the freedom to explore their own aesthetics through a variety of media, mostly found objects. None of the courses are designed as instructional "cookie cutter" craft projects.

"I try to emphasize the importance of creating something with personal thought or significance, resulting in an experience much more meaningful to the student."

Centering on the more mature young arts enthusiast with an interest in seeking new avenues to explore, advancing existing skills, or combining talents to find new forms of expression, the Art Camp staff has developed these programs to reach beyond the traditional summer camp experience.

The pastoral setting, in outdoor "classrooms," the use of organic materials as sources of inspiration, and the dedication to personal expression, whether in collaboration with others or in individual settings, make this program unusual and appealing for new and veteran campers and their parents.

Enrollment is ongoing, with openings in many of the above-described classes. Call the 1860 House at 921-3272 for applications and information.

White Water Rafting On the Lehigh River

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, Titus Mill Road, Hopewell Township, is offering a white water rafting trip for adults and children over 8 on Saturday, June 23 from 7:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Participants will discover the joys of whitewater rafting and the beauty of the Lehigh River Gorge on this trip, which includes instructions, safety demonstrations, experienced guides, life jackets, and unsinkable rafts. Although the river will be rugged because of a dam release up river, the trip will be appropriate for families and beginners.

All participants must have basic swimming skills.

Participants will meet at the Buttinger Nature Center before traveling by charter bus to Jim Thorpe, Pennsylvania. The trip is $85 for adults and $75 for children 8- 12. Payment is by mail only.

Nonmembers should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to TRIPS-Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, 31 Titus Mill Road, Pennington, 08534. For information or registration forms, call 737-7592.

Family Advice Column:

WHY GO TO WEDDINGS?

By the Rev. Peter K. Stimpson

The Rev. Peter K. Stimpson

QUESTION: I go to the church for a wedding because I'd be embarrassed to only show up at the reception. Why go to weddings? No offense, but aren't they kind of boring?*

ANSWER: Gee, it must have been a thrill having such a party pooper dusting off a pew at the wedding. But, to understand why it is important to go to weddings, you must first know what marriage is.

1. WHAT IS MARRIAGE? Why do people marry? If it is simply because they are lonely, or want to put 2 incomes together for a better life, then they are two individuals living at the same address, but not really married.

• Marriage is defined, whether you think in terms of theology, philosophy, sociology, or law, as the consent that a couple makes to one another on their wedding day, the "I DO" that is the heart of the ceremony.

• This consent, this marital vow, is not a boring, stagnant legal contract carved in stone that reduces their freedom by locking them into a relationship.

• No. Instead, it is a living, breathing commitment to ongoing growth with one another. It is a protective bubble surrounding the couple, keeping interference out and intimacy in, thereby giving their relationship enough power to help each other grow to become more fully who they are meant to be, no matter what life may have in store for them.

2. WHY HAVE A WEDDING? Coming to church for the wedding is not a boring prerequisite to be then entitled to get to the reception where all the food and fun are. Think of it as a double gift: one for the couple and one for you.

a. A GIFT FOR THEM: As this process of growth is difficult, as life has more than a few bumps built into it, you are there to offer your support to your friends when they hit a rough time in their marriage. Just as they are committed to each other, you are committed to them, not out of duty, but out of love. They will receive a number of gifts on their wedding day, but the main one that will not rust or fade, or end up at the back of a closet collecting dust, is your love.

b. A GIFT FOR YOU: But wait, there is also a gift for you! The reason that marriage is a sacrament is that marriage is a sign of how much God loves you. We can not see God, and hence, we need sacraments or signs to help us see in the material world what we cannot see in the spiritual one.

• If you ever wondered whether God loved you, take a long hard look at the couple being married. While they are nervous, they also are very much in love. You can see it is how they talk about and look at each other.

• God loves you as deeply as that. If you were to stand at the Pearly Gates today and worry if you would gain entry into heaven, and then discovered that your spouse was on the other side and could decide whether or not you get in, you would probably relax instantly, as you know he or she would immediately let you in. Why? Because they love you.

• Well, God loves you that much and more. So, when your cynical self leaves the church, and when doubt inevitably creeps into your soul as to whether God really cares, remember the love you saw between your friends at their wedding. Relish the gift they gave you: knowing that God loves you very, very much!

In addition to expert coaching, "Joints in Motion" team members will receive round-trip airfare to Dublin or Honolulu, hotel accommodations, and entry into the marathons. The Dublin Marathon takes place on October 29, while the one in Honolulu will be on December 9.

In return, participants raise funds for arthritis research and the Foundation's Quality of Life program.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Joints in Motion program is invited to an information meeting at Momentum Fitness on June 20, at 7.

The Township Should Stop Subsidizing The Borough Until It Agrees to Unify

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It seems to me that Princeton Township is ignoring what should be a major longterm goal: unification with Princeton Borough.

The Township is a donut-shaped entity with its geographical center in the Borough. We Township residents consider the downtown area "our" downtown, but we have absolutely no say in how it's run. Facilities that for us are centrally located, such as the library, senior center, and art center, sit in someone else's town. The Borough makes the rules concerning parking, zoning, development, etc., in this central area.

The Borough and the Township have roughly the same population, but the Township has more than twice the tax ratables of the Borough. One might think that the Borough would want to unify to take advantage of our tax base. Unfortunately for us, most of our most expensive services are administered under joint agreements that are paid for in proportion to each municipality's tax base. Thus, on average, each Township resident pays about double (through taxes) what each Borough resident pays for the same jointly administered service.

Before the 1997 unification referendum, Borough anti-unification forces argued that with the joint agreements, unification was of no advantage for them. They said in effect, "With the Township paying the bills and us making the rules, why should we change?" Thus, unification carried in the Township but failed in the Borough.

The only way I can think of to change this is to try to go it alone on most services. This will be difficult because in the short run it may appear to stymie "progress," and it may make it difficult to locate facilities in a central or convenient area. In the long run though, I think it would stimulate the Borough to work for unification, or at least to accept unification. If it didn't, we could console ourselves with our resultant tax savings. In short, I thank we should stop subsidizing the Borough until they agree to unify.

Let Us Hope University's New President Will Stop Its Out-of-Control Expansion

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week I attended a meeting between the Harrison Street residents' committee and a representative of Princeton Future. The committee members explained that the closing of Washington Road would be a disaster for the already over-trafficked Harrison thoroughfare.

In response we were told that for all involved parties, including the University, the discussion was back to square one and that all options were on the table. One of the participants then asserted that the University in all of its dealings had been less than forthright. In particular, shortly after she had purchased her home from the University a number of years ago, the latter proceeded to sell all its property on that street, presumably on the assumption that the projected Millstone Bypass would greatly increase traffic on Harrison.

These comments confirmed the impression I gained at the packed town meeting of January 2000 when the audience overwhelmingly expressed its opposition to this project. I was surprised at the total silence from any University representative who might be attending to express the University's views in the matter. It was only near the end of the meeting that one of the speakers identified a University official in the audience and made him come forward to speak.

Similarly, various letters in your paper mentioned a meeting of the D.O.T. with University representatives last winter to which the public was not invited and then again we read about plans being laid by the University and Sarnoff of a humongous real-estate complex, which would further despoil the historic communities in the Princeton area and bring traffic to a totally intolerable level.

I recall a public meeting with Congressman Holt a year or so ago about urban sprawl and projected build-out in the whole state of New Jersey. The congressman assured us of his efforts to impede such development. We were also handed some beautiful booklets published by the State's Environmental Protection division, speaking of their plans to maintain open space.

One of the people on the Township Committee however made the point that all this talk carried little weight against the power of money wielded by the real estate lobby. Alas, her comments are validated by the continued secretive doings re the Bypass and a clear indifference towards the people's will.

One can only hope that the University's new president will be more dedicated to humanistic values than to the fiduciary affairs of an already immensely rich institution and bring the continued expansion of real estate in and off campus under control. The citizenry, on the other hand, should take heart from the recently proven robustness of our democracy in facing up to unlegitimized political power derived from corporate wealth.

A Thriving Sapling of the Mercer Oak Was Planted on Township Anniversary

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I read with interest and pleasure of the gift of Mrs. Marston Morse of her Mercer Oak sapling now in place adjacent to the original.

It brings to mind that as Chairman of the 150th Anniversary of the Incorporation of Princeton Township, I arranged for the planting of a similar Mercer Oak sapling which we planted in 1988 and dedicated with some 150 descendants of 1838 residents present. It was to be not only a commemorative tree for the occasion but principally to replace the original when at some point it passed on. Interestingly the first sapling died the first year and was replaced with the present one.

We could not then know just when the senior oak would die so the commemorative tree was put 200 feet away from the original by direction of the state. It is now a beautiful oak about 30 feet high. We were then most disappointed — and remain so — that the bronze plaque we had cast to note the occasion and the tree's heritage was not placed by the tree but seems to be gathering dust in the Clarke House. Quite recently to no avail we once again asked John Mills and the state to put the plaque by the tree since there are other plaques in the battlefield.

While our tree turned out not to be the replacement, I think Mrs. Morse's tree is in the right place — a spot that might not have been appropriate in 1988 when we celebrated the Township's 150th anniversary.

I would hope that should the Morse tree not survive that our 1988 tree might be moved to be a replacement and thus serve our original purpose.

Funding of Fish & Wildlife Division Discourages Protection of Wildlife

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am responding to Thomas Poole's letter, in which he offers to let anyone see his file of newspaper articles that support mass slaughter of deer. Mr. Poole does not mention that in large part these articles quote employees of the NJ Division of Fish and Wildlife and Dr. Larry Katz, a professor at Rutgers University, who is doing "research" on deer fertility control. These employees deny that effective deer birth control exists at this time. However, the research group at Rutgers is involved in a substantial conflict of interest.

In addition to funding from several other sources, Rutgers receives considerable research funding from the New Jersey Division of Fish & Wildlife. Therefore, they are strongly tempted to slant their research outcome to please the giver.

Fish and Wildlife, in turn, is supported by hunting license fees and certain taxes they receive from the sale of hunting weapons. Non-lethal solutions don't provide Fish and Wildlife with any revenue at all.

Meanwhile, Drs. Kirkpatrick and Brown at Dalhousie University have already developed a one-shot drug to block fertilization in deer. The drug is now being used in areas of the world that are not beholden to agencies such as Fish and Wildlife.

Dr. Katz was using Fish and Wildlife "research" money when he helped the USDA write a community based deer management plan (CBDM) that is now being used statewide to slaughter deer.

The killing is done by a combination of paid professionals and local hunters, who are encouraged to hunt with eased restrictions, and purchase special multiple-kill licenses. In this way, CBDMs bring in a lot of money for Fish and Wildlife.

In every place where a CBDM has been used, the deer fertility rate has increased. The surviving deer have more food available to them, therefore their reproductive rate increases to accommodate the food supply. Thus, in most of the CBDMs that have been run, a huge number of deer were killed, but the result was a relatively small decrease in the deer population. And this decrease will only be temporary, because deer from the surrounding area will move in to restock the existing population. To stabilize the population at the existing level, perpetual slaughter must be carried out — more money for the Division.

To resolve the conflicts that arise between people and deer, we must change the statutory scheme of Fish and Wildlife, so that their funding doesn't come from hunting license sales but from the general treasury. Then Fish and Wildlife will be able to carry out their true mission, which is to protect our wildlife.

Thanks to the Far-Sighted People Who Helped Save Coventry Farm

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Hallelujah! I feel as though I have been given a great gift, and want to add my thanks to all the far-sighted people who made possible the saving of Coventry Farm.

Having been a neighbor for close to 50 years, it warms my heart to know it will be there, hopefully, for 50 more — almost as it has always been. With the new wire fence, the beautiful fields are now visible from the road — a definite plus. Many, many thanks. Bless you all!

MONTGOMERY EYE CARE
"Dedicated to Quality and Service"

A LOOK AT CORRECTIVE LENSES

There are three basic types of lenses used to correct vision problems. The convex lens is thicker in the center than at the edges, and gathers light rays together towards a point. This lens is used for farsighted eyes, which cannot bend light rays to the degree necessary. The concave lens is thinner at the center than at the edges, and spreads light rays apart to help the nearsighted eye reduce its overall focusing power and place an image neatly on the retina. The cylindrical lens is curved more in one direction than the other. It is often used in conjunction with a concave or convex lens to correct for astigmatism, caused by an out-of-round cornea.

The human eye is an intricate organ. Innovations in lens development have helped people with refractive errors enjoy better vision. MONTGOMERY EYE CARE is "dedicated to quality and service." We keep current with the latest in lens technology and feature lightweight, anti-reflective lenses that help you see clearly at all distances. You can select a pair of fashion frames or contact lenses. Call us at 609-279-0005, or visit us at Montgomery Center at 1325 Rt. 206 for all your eyewear and eye care needs in one convenient location.

P.S. Nearsightedness, farsightedness, and astigmatism are not eye diseases. They are refractive errors that can be corrected with prescription lenses.

Let's Rise to the Occasion and Establish Beautiful Madison Square at Heart of Town

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Spring Street and Tulane Street parking lots are the last open spaces in the center of our town. What will we do with these spaces: leave everything as is, build a garage, establish a park-like plaza? The decision will determine the character of this central area — a beautiful and lively heart of Princeton — or just another monster garage.

PSE&G recently indicated willingness to "compact" all the switches in their substation by modern technology. This would provide parking for about 60 additional cars (more than 100 with an underground level), equivalent to the parking needs of the new library. Such approach allows leaving everything as is — open parking.

Many citizens, however, prefer replacing the open parking by a beautiful, large plaza — surrounded by shops and cafes and with various activities taking place on that plaza. This plaza should extend from Witherspoon east to the end of the shops along Spring Street — please not smaller!

The balance of the present parking area would be needed for a building to house those shops, apartments above, a hidden garage behind all those. The key question — not sufficiently discussed so far — is the bulk of such a building/garage, as given by its height. It is strongly suggested tn restrain the height of this building to the height of the cornice of the new library. This would allow for a ground level of shops and cafes plus three levels of apartments — please no more!

The next key question is the number of cars to be accommodated in such a new hidden garage. It is suggested to accommodate no more than the present number of cars displaced by the plaza (180), plus a car for each of the new apartments (20 plus), plus 100 additional cars for the new shops and cafes around the plaza, for a total of 300 cars, some underground. The removal of the PSE&G switches would allow parking of an additional 100 cars or more, if on two levels, for the need of the new library. With the additional parking on the Tulane lot and the possibility to build over that, the grand total would be 500 to 600 cars (presently about 280 cars). Please no more!

Any additional parking should not be in the "Heart of Princeton," but rather at peripheral locations, on another level on Chambers Street or at the YMCA, as offered by the YMCA.

The more beautiful solution will cost more than the merely practical solution, the beautiful plaza more than a simple garage. Some money may be raised from the State, the university should be challenged to contribute, and private fund-raising may become necessary. Princeton was able to conclude a number of challenging projects that way — the Medical Center, McCarter Theater, the new library, the preservation of the Institute Lands and all the other open spaces adorning our community.

Let's rise to the occasion — define a vision, show leadership, and implement a program to establish an inclusive, beautiful Madison Square at the heart of Princeton.

Second Annual Senior Health Festival A Huge Success and a Vital Service

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As you are aware, The Human Services Commission, along with the Senior Resource Center, The Princeton Shopping Center, and the Medical Center at Princeton held the second annual Senior Health Festival last Tuesday. The event was a huge success and a great time was had by all.

We would like to personally thank the outstanding staff and merchants of the Princeton Shopping Center for their tremendous effort and generous donations. Your contributions were greatly appreciated not only by the Human Services Department, but we are sure by all of the senior citizens who attended.

We would like to thank all of the agencies and organizations that provided health screenings, and who dispensed vital information to the seniors. Their commitment to the health and well being nf all seniors was clearly demonstrated, and they are to be commended.

Last but surely not least, big kudos to Mr. Daniel Palumba, owner of AAA Princeton Taxi/Spectrum Limousine for providing limousine service to and from the Health Festival. It was wonderful to see the excitement on the faces of the senior riders as they arrived in style.

Again, thank you to all who assisted and contributed to making this a truly successful and worthwhile event. We look forward to doing it again next year.

Selection, Service and Experience Offered at Mozart Piano Company

Al Kotsch loves music. Not only is he owner of Mozart Piano Company, he is an active performer, playing keyboard at various restaurants, clubs, special event parties, and benefits in the Princeton area and beyond.

"I enjoy the universal language," he smiles. "I grew up in a music store, and I started playing the piano at the age of 4."

He opened Mozart Piano, 1905 Route 32 (Concord Square) in Hamilton a year ago, offering new, previously-owned pianos, and repair service. In addition, he is able to pursue his love of performing.

IT'S NEW To Us

"I formerly owned one of the largest piano companies on the east coast," he recalls. After selling that, he stepped back for a while, taking time to plan his future as a keyboard performer.

"I really opened this store for my son Jeffrey," he explains. "But I also wanted to help introduce people to quality pianos at reasonable prices. What I like most about this store is that I can sell products for less. There is less overhead here. And I really like Hamilton. It's not far from Princeton, and I didn't want to get caught up in that Route One Jamboree!"

Mr. Kotsch provides customers with a wide selection of new and previously-owned pianos, along with his experience and expertise.

All Styles

Mozart Piano is an authorized Kawai dealer, and offers a big selection of new Kawai pianos in all styles and sizes.

"I believe Kawai is the best Japanese piano," says Mr. Kotsch. "It is not the cheapest or the most expensive, but it is very good quality. New pianos start in the $2600-$2700 range.

"A piano is an investment," he points out. "You also have to help people realize they have to budget costs to maintain this new member of the family. For example, it should have a regular tuning at least once a year."

Among the used pianos, Steinway, Yamaha, Mason, Wurlitzer, Kimball, Baldwin, and Boston are all available, starting at $1995.

Price depends on the condition, he notes. "I don't offer any used pianos that we don't guarantee. We carry all recognizable, well-known brands, and all are in excellent condition.

"By the way," he adds, "the biggest mistake someone can make is to buy privately. That is scary! We offer a service here, and we'll help people identify a good used piano, even if they don't get it here. I feel that I'm not only knowledgeable, but I care about people. With me, they'll get the truth and the benefit of my knowledge and experience."

PLAY IT AGAIN: "A piano is a forever item. It can bring so much pleasure for such a long time." Al Kotsch, owner of Mozart Piano Company, is seated at a top-of-the-line Kawai concert grand piano.

Mr. Kotsch also offers a rental service for $50 a month.

Even in an age of high tech and electronic wizardry, there is a big market for pianos, he reports. Everything from uprights to baby grands to concert grands is in demand. Customers range from beginners to advanced, and are from all over the area and beyond.

There are many interesting stories, he notes, including one of a novice pianist, whose grandmother left her a generous inheritance. Instead of putting the money in a bank or spending it intermittently, she purchased a Steinway, and took piano lessons.

"The piano is always a wonderful reminder of my grandmother and all the happy memories of her," she explains.

Repair Service

Many customers are parents who want their children to learn to play the piano, adds Mr. Kotsch, and this is one of his biggest pleasures. "I love introducing kids to the piano, and many of our customers have made great strides in competitions."

Repair service is also a big part of the business, and Mozart offers everything from rebuilding to tuning. "Whatever is needed," he reports.

"In addition, we have a furniture repair division. When you work with new instruments, and they are shipped, they may have a chip, and we have to be able to repair it. Now, I get calls to repair scratches on very expensive furniture — not just pianos. There is nothing more exciting than someone calling in distress and my being able to erase that."

Helping people, whether by repairing a special piece, introducing them to the piano, or contributing to their enjoyment by performing, is very important to Mr. Kotsch.

One-Man Band

"Entertaining has always been a focus for me, and I hope to do more. I love the creativity, and I feel I'm in a new phase of my career. I currently play many Friday and Saturday nights at Lieggi's Restaurant in West Trenton, and I also want to do more benefits, especially non-profits. For these, I perform in kind, and I've played from Hilton Head to the Pocono resorts.

"I play a big variety, from Duke Ellington to Cole Porter to '80s music. What I like about the keyboard is that you can have an electronic band in the background, while I play the piano. There can be strings and other instruments. Like a one-man band!"

In addition, he expects to have a CD released next Christmas, and this is exciting for him. "There is a feeling of great satisfaction when it comes out the way you want it."

Overall, he points out, he is enjoying his life very much, and he likes to share these good feelings with customers, as well as friends. After struggling with an anxiety disorder for many years, he is now able to control it with medication, and it has made a big difference to him. Although he is very busy, he now takes time to smell the flowers!

"I really love life. I love people, animals, and flowers. I rescue dogs in the area, and I have five of my own. And I also have a big garden. Of course, I love the piano and the piano business — I love working, but not just for money. It's more to help people, to entertain them, make them laugh and make them happy."

Mozart Piano Company is open Monday through Saturday 10 to 6; evenings by appointment. The phone number is 588-5000.

Michael Graves' Items for the Home Displayed at Graves Design Studio

Known worldwide for his award-winning architectural designs, including hotels, museums, libraries, office buildings, and residences, Princeton resident Michael Graves has been designing items on a smaller scale since 1978.

It was his famous whistling bird tea kettle that sparked consumer interest on a grand scale in the 1980s, and it was the first of many projects with the Alessi Company in Italy.

The kettle was so popular that it spawned a family of accessories, including matching sugar and creamer set, salt shaker and pepper mill, and water pitcher, among others.

Mr. Graves' design products grew to include other items, as well. Wooden desk and mantel clocks, leather organizers, wallets and address books, photo frames, wristwatches and jewelry have all been available.

The Graves Design Studio Store, opening seven years ago at 138 Nassau Street, was an opportunity to display the entire collection together, says Mr. Graves.

"I really wanted to see all the objects in one place, to see how they relate to each other. When items are available in museum shops, only part of a collection is offered. Also, there had been a demand for the objects to be more accessible to the public."

Destinatian Place

"This is really a destination place," points out store manager Lori Stagnitto. "Customers come from all over. People know Michael Graves' work around the world.

"It's also a very popular place for wedding and graduation gifts," she adds. "We have a bridal registry, and we ship anywhere in the world. In addition, Father's Day is coming up, and there are great gifts for men — stainless steel wine stoppers, champagne stoppers, corkscrews, pens, ties, cuff links, clocks, watches, wallets, a book on Michael Graves — just to name some items!

"Michael Graves is continually designing new items for the store. He loves the store," reports Ms. Stagnitto. "I always look forward to his new products. It's also fun to work with the designers, and be attached to the design studio upstairs, and Michael Graves' business office is across the street. We are a real design studio."

Customers will find items for the entire family in the inviting studio, located in an historic 1850s wood frame house.

A charming Limoges baby set, including plate, cup, and bowl, featuring Michael Graves' bear design, is hard to resist, as is a baby romper displaying the signature tea kettle.

Kitchen items abound! Glass egg cups and butter dishes to handsome "Pelicano" espresso makers to trays, bread boxes, tea pots, and still the number one seller — the whistling bird tea kettle — are all on hand.

"We also have wonderful champagne flutes, decorated with drawings Michael Graves did for The Great Gotsby," notes Ms. Stagnitto, who has been with Graves Design Studio Store four and a half years.

"I came to Christmas shop and never left," she says with a smile. "It's a wonderful place to be, and the customers are so interesting. They often ask for the story behind a certain design.

Love af Italy

"And the stories people can tell! For example, I could do a whole article titled, 'The Little Lost Red Bird.' People are always telling me stories about what happened to it — the dog ate it; it was lost in the move'; 'my husband burned it.' Fortunately, we have plenty of replacements on hand."

Michael Graves' love of Italy is also reflected in many of the items on display, adds Ms. Stagnitto.

"The Tuscany theme is prevalent. Michael Graves spent his early years in Rome, and admired the Tuscan area. There are beautiful sterling silver cuff bracelets, earrings, jewelry with Tuscan landscapes."

In addition, there is a very handsome signed and numbered Michael Graves lithograph of the Tuscan landscape. Silk necktles, with colors and patterns reflecting the flags of the famous Palio horse race in Sienna, are popular, as are the rollerball and fountain pens, also featuring Pallo colors and designs.

DISTINCTIVE DESIGNS: "I feel as if I'm working in a candy store, surrounded by goodies all day long! Customers love it that they can get a special Michael Graves item here." Lori Stagnitto, manager of Graves Design Studio Store, is shown near an array of Michael Graves' designs, including (at right) the famous whistling bird tea kettle.

Prices cover a wide range at the store, with key chains at $10, picture frames from $12 and $18, ties at $38, champagne flutes $30 each, and the tea kettle $112.

A special plate and bowl designed by Mr. Graves for Mediterra Restaurant are offered at $20 each, with a portion of the proceeds to benefit The Audrey Hepburn Children's Fund.

Porcelain Creatians

"Mediterra was chosen as one of 26 restaurants in the U.S. to participate in the Buon Ricordo America 2000," explains Ms. Stagnitto. "Founded in 1995, Buon Ricordo America is a nonprofit organization that preserves a tradition that began in Italy in 1964 to celebrate and revive the Italian Craft reflected in the porcelain creations of Francesco I de Medici in 15th Century Renaissance Italy.

"In Italy, patrons who visit select restaurants can order the house specialty to receive a Buon Ricordo plate. Each participating restaurant features its own signature dish and handpainted ceramic plate or bowl, designed to be a souvenir.

"Michael Graves' design features a stylized painting of a fish with the description of a new featured item on the Mediterra menu: Mediterranean striped bass with a red wine polenta sauce."

"As an architect, I've always believed that what can make a domestic setting truly home is the infusion of a cultural dimension," says Mr. Graves.

"The inspiration for the collection of decorative, tabletop, and personal accessories comes from a love for all things cultural: art, music, literature.

"I hope my designs for the objects in the store may find places in your own realm of cultured domesticity."

Graves Design Studio Store offers gift certificates, as well as the special signature gift wrap black paper with blue ribbon.

Hours for the studio store are Thursday through Saturday 10 to 5. 497-6878.

PHS Choir Plans Performance Of St. Matthew Passion June 17

MUSIC & THEATER

Princeton's "singing ambassadors," the 78 members of the Princeton High School Choir, will present, for one performance only, Johann Sebastian Bach's St. Matthew Passion, on Sunday, June 17, at Richardson Auditorium, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Andrew Megill, professor of conducting at Westminster Choir College, will conduct, and his 16-member professional ensemble, Fuma Sacra, will sing with the choir.

Former associate PHS choir director Sarah Pelletier will be a featured soloist.

The three-hour Possion was an integral part of the choir's repertoire during last winter's tour of Russia and Germany. Choir members have been rehearsing the 300-page work since last September.

In the words of choir director, Charles Sundquist, it became clear, after the triumphant performance in Berlin, that, "somehow, we needed to perform this masterpiece for the Princeton community. It is also a wonderful opportunity for the choir to thank the many supporters and friends who made the 2001 tour possible."

The choir's International reputation has led to concert tours in Canada, England, France, Italy, Germany, and Russia in past years, and it receives many invitations to perform throughout the United States as well.

Each spring, vocal music students audition for the choir and adjunct groups such as the all-female Cat's Meow, and Around Eight. Choir is an academic subject at Princeton High School, and meets five days a week.

Many choir members are serious music students who also participate in the various instrumental music programs at the school.

The St. Matthew Possion is an ambitious undertaking for any choir, but particularly for a choir comprised of high school students. However, Dr. Sundquist and associate choir director, Scott Dettra, knew that this year's choir was up to the challenge after only two weeks of rehearsal.

Two full programs, one to be performed in St. Petersburg and Novgorod, Russia, and the Bach, which was performed in Berlin, were prepared.

The best seats are available on Saturday, July 28 and Friday, July 6, but good seats are still available for other performances as well. Tickets range in price from $22 through $82 and subscriptions are still available for the entire season.

Shanghai Quartet To Open Series Of Summer Concerts

The Princeton University Summer Concerts welcomes all who love music to its 33rd season of chamber music evenings in June and July. The concerts are free.

The opening concert on Wednesday, June 20 will feature the Shanghai String Quartet. They will play quartets by Haydn and Samuel Barber, and the Rasoumoffsky No. 3 Quartet by Beethoven.

The Shanghai Quartet was formed at the Shanghai Conservatory in 1983. In 1987 the quartet took second place at the Portsmouth International String Competition (now the London International Competition) and won the Chicago Discovery Competition.

In 1996 the ensemble made the first of three tours of the Far East, performing in Hong Kong, Taiwan, Tokyo and Osaka.

The ensemble has performed at Carnegie Hall's Weill Recital Hall, Metropolitan Museum of Art and appears frequently at the Freer Gallery in Washington, D.C.

During the 1999-2000 season, the Shanghai Quartet completed its tenth year of its residency at the University of Richmond. In honor of this anniversary, the university, along with the Freer Gallery, commissioned a new work by Bright Sheng, which the quartet premiered in the spring of 2000.

Other concerts in the 2001 Princeton University Summer Concerts series feature the Clatemont Trio on Tuesday, June 26, the Corigliann Quartet on Thursday, July 12, and the Moscow String Quartet on Tuesday July 24.

Princeton University Summer Concerts take place at 8 p.m. in Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall on the Princeton University campus. Free tickets (a maximum of four per person), required for admission, will be distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis at the Richardson Auditorium box office beginning at 6 p.m. on the night of the concert.

Concertgoers are also welcome to picnic on the grass behind Alexander Hall before each concert. These concerts are sponsored in part by a grant from the Mercer County Cultural & Heritage Commission.

START OF THE SUMMER MUSIC SEASON: The Shanghai Quartet, which will perform June 20 at Richardson Auditorium, will open the Princeton University Summer Concert Series.

Grounds for Sculpture To Offer Dance Program

Grounds for Sculpture will host the Nai Ni Chen Dance Company, which will present a new program, "The Unfolding Stone."

This composition, commissioned by Dancing in the Streets, Inc., of New York City and choreographed by Ms. Chen to be performed outdoors, is set to Korean Chang-Go music.

Using words and ideas from the I-Ching (The Book of Changes), the dance utilizes partnering and ensemble work inspired by the activation and blending of the original energies, Yin and Yang.

The dance will be held in the field adjacent to the Gazebo on Saturday, June 16 at 4:30. Rain date is Saturday, June 23.

Attendees are invited to join the dance company for a light reception after the performance.

Tickets for the dance and reception are $15 for members of Grounds for Sculpture and $20 for non-members.

To reserve tickets, call the membership office at 689-1089.

Grounds for Sculpture, a 22-acre sculpture park and museum, is located on the site of the former New Jersey State Fairgrounds, 18 Fairgrounds Road, Hamilton.

Nash Biographer Will Read at Micawber

Sylvia Nasar, author of A Beautiful Mind, the biography of John Forbes Nash Jr. — now being made into a feature film — will read from her book and sign copies on Thursday, June 14, at 6, at Micawber Books, 110-114 Nassau Street.

In the book, Ms. Nasar recreates the life of Mr. Nash, a mathematical genius whose career was cut short by schizophrenia and who, after three decades of mental illness, miraculously recovered and was honored with a Nobel Prize.

A Beautiful Mind won the National Book Critics' Circle Award and was a finalist for the Pulitzer prize in biography. The book has been translated into more than half a dozen languages.

Until recently an economics reporter for The New York Times, Ms. Nasar has also written for Fortune and U.S. News and World Report.

She is on the faculty of the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism and is a By-Fellow in Churchill College at Cambridge University, where she is working on a book about 20th Century economic thinkers.

German Song

The program on Sunday, June 24, is entitled "A Garden Transformed: German Song in the 20th Century." This concert explnres the edgy sophistication of Germany's post-Romantic song literature.

Featured works include: Arnold Schoenberg's Songs, Op. 2 (1899); Richard Strauss' Songs, Op. 69 (1918); Ernst Krenek's Lacrymoso, Op. 48 (1928); Schoenberg's Book of Honging Gorden (1914); and songs by Alban Berg, Max Reger and Anton Webern.

Performing in this concert will be Margaret Cusack, soprano; Serena Benedetti, soprano; and Elizabeth Shammash, mezzo-soprano.

The program on Wednesday, June 27, is entitled "Sondheim and Company." Stephen Sondheim has been a pivotal force and innovator in the world of musical theater for more than 40 years.

This concert will feature both well-known and obscure songs from his catalng, as well as vocal works from the talented generation of young Broadway composers whose music shows Sondheim's influence, including Adam Guettal, Michael John LaChiusa and Jonathan Larson.

Performing in this concert will be Serena Benedetti, soprano; Laura Brooks Rice, mezzo-soprano; and Marcus DeLoach, baritone. Peter D. Wright is the arranger for the Sondheim compositions.

J.J. Penna has performed in recital with such singers as Kathleen Battle, Harolyn Blackwell, David Daniels, Kevin McMillan, Florence Quivar, Sharon Sweet, Christopher Trakas, Indra Thomas, and Ying Huang.

In March of 2001, he gave the premiere performance of William Bolcom's latest song cycle with mezzo-snprano Florence Quivar. This month he will perform in recital with soprano Roberta Peters.

Aurora Micu emigrated to the United States from her native Romania in 1990. She has performed recitals in CAMI Hall and Steinway Hall in New York City; at SUNY Binghamton's Anderson Center; and as soloist with the Collegium Musicum Orchestra of Princeton.

She has performed a series of recitals in Romania and at the Bay View Festival in Michigan.

Serena Benedetti has perfnrmed in Handel's Israel in Egypt for the Dessoff Choir's 75th Anniversary Concert with Kent Tritle.

Last summer she sang the role of Susanna in The Marriage of Figaro with the Amato Opera Company and performed Villa-Lobos' Bachianas Brasileiras No. 5 at the Maverick Music Festival.

Margaret Cusack is a winner of the International American Music Competition at Carnegie Hall and made her New York recital debut at Weill Recital Hall of Carnegie Hall in 1987. In February 2000, she made her Metropolitan Opera debut in Elektro under the baton of James Levine.

In 1985 she made her New York City Opera debut as Micaela in Cormen and became a leading soprano with the company.

Mezzo-soprano Laura Brooks Rice has performed throughout the country in a diverse repertoire that includes Bach's Christmos Orotorio, Mahler's Songs of o Woyforer, Elgar's Seo Pictures and Brahms' Alto Rhopsody. In recent seasons she has appeared with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, the New Jersey Symphony, the Bethlehem Bach Festival and the Boulder Bach Festival.

ART

'Contemporary Primitive' To Feature Three Artists

"Contemporary Primitive," an exhibit of work that at first glance appears crude, but is quite sophisticated and imaginative, will open on June 16 at the Morpeth Gallery, 43 West Broad Street, Hopewell.

An opening reception with the three artists — Anat Klebanov, Bob Justin, and Dick de Groot — will take place, from 5 to 8.

Ms. Klebanov was born in Israel and has travelled internationally. Her gouache paintings depict figures, animals, and objects, interacting on a flat plane.

Mr. Justin sees faces in all sort of objects, and turns the scraps of society into masks and sculpture. A self-taught artist, who began his art career later in life, Mr. Justin began showing in the early 1990s. In 1997, he held a one-man exhibition of his work at the NJ State Museum.

Mr. de Groot's favorite subject is the urban landscape, which he alters to suit his purpose. Buildings, cars, traffic signs, clouds and trees are moved, added or edited to create a painted new reality.

The exhibit will be open through July 14. Gallery hours are Wednesday through Sunday, 11 to 5. For more information, call 333-9393.

IN LAMBERTVILLE: This watercolor by Carole Bleistein, "Sunset at Goa, India," will be at the Lambertville Public Library through June 22, as part of a solo exhibition by the Lawrenceville artist.

Exhibits

Photographer Malda V. Kalnins will exhibit her work at the Plainsboro Public Library, Municipal Complex, 641 Plainsboro Road, through June 30. The prints in the exhibit — "Trenton Plus" — capture historical and contemporary aspects of Trenton, as well as landscapes of the neighboring Delaware River area.

Born in Latvia, Ms. Kalnins lived in Germany during World War II, and came to the U.S. when she was in high school. Retired from a career as a research chemist, she devotes much of her time to photography, and has received a number of first place awards for her work. She has exhibited in both New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Gallery hours are Monday and Friday, 9 to 5:30; Tuesday through Thursday, 9 to 8:30; and Saturday and Sunday, 9 to 5. For more information and/or directions, call 275-2897.

Work in a variety of media, created by disabled artists, will be on display at Johnson & Johnson World Headquarters Gallery, New Brunswick, until July 20.

The exhibition features the work of physically-, mentally-, and emotionally-challenged adults from the Creative Growth Art Center, in Oakland, Calif. The exhibition, which includes examples of "outsider art," includes brightly-patterned hooked rugs, pastel and marker drawings, and linocuts — among other work.

Work by Creative Growth artists has been published, in books and journals, and has been featured in major museum exhibitions and television and newspaper reports.

The gallery is located at One Johnson & Johnson Plaza in New Brunswick, and is open by appointment only. For more information, call (732) 524-6957.

Who were the 9 greatest baseball players of all time, by position? ... A national news service picks this all-time team ... (1B) Lou Gehrig ... (2B) Rogers Hornsby ... (SS) Honus Wagner ... (3B) Mike Schmidt ... (Outfield) Babe Ruth, Willie Mays and Ty Cobb ... (C) Johnny Bench ... (P) Cy Young.

Here's an amazing sports story ... Let's say a boy was born in 1909 in Chicago and became an ardent Chicago Cub fan at an early age ... Today he would be 92 years old and in all his rooting for the Cubs over the years, he would never have had the thrill of the Cubs winning a World Series — because the Cubs, even though they've been playing every year, have NEVER won a World Series in the last 92 years ... Last time the Cubs won the World Series was in 1908.

Here are 2 questions even good baseball fans miss ... If a line drive hits the pitcher's mound, then ricochets into the first base dugout, what's the ruling? ... Answer is a foul ball ... Let's say an outfielder loses his glove running after a fly ball ... Can he then legally catch the ball in his hat? ... Answer is no ... That's illegal use of equipment.

2001 Instinet Classic in Full Swing at Jasna Polana; Golfing Legends Vie for a $225,000 First Prize

PGA senior golf legends are in town this week for the Instinet Golf Classic at The Players Club at Jasna Polana. They all are battling for the top prize of $225,000.

Among those competing are defending champion Dr. Gil Morgan, who broke several records on his way to victory last year. Joining him are familiar names like Chi Chi Rodriguez, who just recently committed to the tournament, Gary Player, who designed the course at Jasna Polana, Tom Jen- kins, 1999 Instinet Classic winner, and Jerry McGee, who struggled to finish last year's tournament after battling cancer.

FINAL PREPARATIONS: Final preparations for the 2001 Instinet Classic were being made at Jasna Polana by Megan Gardner on Friday afternoon. The annual event began on Monday and will conclude on Sunday afternoon with the seniors' championship.

Debut for Chi Chi

The 66-year-old Rodriguez is making his debut at the Jasna Polana Instinet Classic. He won the tournament in 1987 at the Chester Valley Golf Club in Malvern, Pennsylvania. He withdrew from this year's Senior PGA Championship and the NFL Classic at the Montclair Country Club because of a torn muscle in his back.

Rodriguez joined the PGA Tour in 1960, and has since won more than $1 million on the tour. He has also raised more than $5 million for the Chi Chi Rodriguez Foundation in Clearwater, Florida. His overall 202 record finish in 1987's Instinet Classic was broken last year when Dr. Morgan finished with a score of 199.

"I think all of the players are excited about the golf course here," said Dr. Morgan. "It's a really unique course with the setting, the house and the grounds. This venue is exceedingly exciting. It's in great shape. It's such a nice place to play.

"There are a lot of golf courses around the country that are nice, but this one seems to have that special something that you don't find in a lot of places.

This event will be exciting again this year, with the way the golf course sets up for the par 5s. There are a lot of exciting holes, so it creates a lot of excitement for the fans throughout the tournament."

Proceeds from the Instinet Classic will benefit the Leonard and Madlyn Abramson Family Cancer Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania Cancer Center. Last year's event raised $496,459 for the foundation.

According to John Glick, M.D., Director and President of the Leonard and Madlyn Abramson Family Cancer Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania Cancer Center, the money was specifically raised for breast cancer research at the Abramson Institute under the direction of Barbara Weber, M.D.

Dr. Weber is an international leader in the field of breast cancer genetics, and is a Professor of Medicine and Genetics at the University of Pennsylvania. She developed the Breast Cancer Program at the university's cancer center in 1995 and has served as director since that time.

The PGA Tour is the only major sports organization that raises money for charitable organizations during the course of its events. Senior tour events have contributed $86 million to charity through 2000, and a record $11.58 million was raised for charities around the country last year.

Area Students Work With Young Participants In Special Olympics Sports Expo at TCNJ

Three students from the Princeton Regional School System, and two from the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School System volunteered their time and efforts at the Special Olympics Sports Expo, held at the College of New Jersey on June 1. It was part of the weekend festivities at the Special Olympics Summer Games.

The Sports Expo, sponsored by Adidas, included tennis, golf, softball and bocce non-competitive clinics. Hannah Barton and Stephanie Rossman, students at the John Witherspoon Middle School in Princeton, Hannah's younger sister Sydney, a student at Littlebrook Elementary School in Princeton, and brothers Jeff and Daniel Sussman from Community Middle School in West Windsor, were all first time volunteers at the event.

"It's a beautiful thing," said Jeff Sussman. "It's great that kids with disabilities can get out and do this."

"It's really, really nice that we could help these people, and let them know they're special," Stephanie commented.

"Everyone gets something out of it, even the volunteers," said Hannah. "It makes the kids feel special."

"It's pretty cool," Daniel commented. "I'm glad the kids are happy."

"I'm excited to have fun with the kids," said Sydney.

Special Olympics events are held year round for children and adults with developmental disabilities, including mental retardation. The summer games at The College of New Jersey drew more than 2400 athletes who competed in nine events, including bocce, aquatics, powerlifting, track and field, and table tennis.

Opening ceremonies were Friday night, and each participant marched into The College of New Jersey stadium, despite pouring rain. Acting Gov. Donald DiFrancesco officially opened the games.

Closing ceremonies were held on Sunday. The featured speaker on the final day was Frank Budd, a 1960 gold medalist who set a world record in the 100-yard dash. He also played professional football with the NFL Philadelphia Eagles in 1962, and the Washington Redskins in 1963. He did all of this after overcoming polio and multiple sclerosis. —Steve Allen

Princeton Post 218 Fields Veteran Squad

Expectations are high for Princeton Post 218's American Legion baseball team this year. Head coach Tommy Parker's team boasts 11 veteran players that are 18 years old. It's a group that could lead Parker to the post-season.

Stuart Abram, Wayne Austin, Dan Discavage, Jim Hoeland, Matt Manley, Rian Morrissey, Matt Ross, Joe Tucholski and Nick Walters are all expected to play the outfield for Post 218.

Discavage, Hoeland and Manley are also expected to play the infield, while Ross and Tucholski will be joined by Peter Burke, Mark Henry, Pat Kerlin, Max Suguira, Jon Trapasso in the pitching rotation. Andrew Capriello will play catcher, while Michael Maguire will occupy first base.

The most experienced teams in the Mercer County American Legion League this season will be Broad Street Park Post 313, and Hamilton Post 31, but Post 218 could surprise the league with its solid hitting and experience.

It may take the team some time to put it all together, but in the end, the post-season is a real possibility.

Post 218 opened its season Sunday night with a 3-2 loss to Hightstown Post 148. It was not the beginning Parker and his squad wanted, but there is a lot of baseball yet to come.

Hightstown broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning after a crucial error by Trapasso. Hoeland led Post 218 with two hits, Austin was 1-for-2 with a stolen base and one run scored, and Tucholski and Andrew Capriello had one RBI apiece in the loss.

Tucholski took the loss, allowing six hits and two runs in five innings. Burke allowed one run in one inning.

PHS Baseball Season Ends With 7-1 Loss

The Princeton High Tigers concluded their season with a disappointing 7-1 loss to Notre Dame on June 5.

Jim Hoeland and Joe Tucholski had two hits apiece for the Tigers, who finished the season with a 14-11 overall record, 11-8 in the CVC. Starting pitcher Matt Ross drove in the team's only run with a solo homerun. Ross (4-4) went the distance, allowed twelve hits and struck out three batters.

The Tigers and Irish may finish tied for first in the Valley Division, unless Notre Dame wins one of its last three games.

The team had scheduled makeup games with Trenton, McCorristin and Hopewell, but at press time it was unclear if these games would be played.

DISAPPOINTING LOSS: The Princeton High bats were silent at Notre Dame on June 5 as the Tigers ended the season with a disappointing 7-1 loss.

Hun's Nick Walters Drafted by San Diego

Hun School senior Nick Walters was recently drafted by the San Diego Padres in the 39th round of the Major League Baseball draft.

Walters is scheduled to begin classes at Princeton University in the fall, but if he signs a major league contract with the Padres, he will forfeit his collegiate athletic career.

The Ivy League prohibits its athletes from signing a professional contract and playing college sports at the same time. It is the only league with that kind of rule.

Walters was the 1,170th selection in the draft. He is scheduled to play with the American Legion Princeton Post 218 baseball team this summer.

Expos slugger Nick Antoine tied the game at 2-2 in the fourth inning with a two RBI hit that scored pitcher Matt Gerard and David Kanoff. John Dalton put the Expos in front to stay after he led off the fifth with a triple, and scored on a single up the middle by Erik Cooper.

Gerard sealed the game by tagging out a runner trying to score from third base in the sixth inning. The Expos were scheduled to play for the championship on Wednesday evening at 6. Their opponent was not known at press time.

Cancer Society's Golf Classic Set for June 18

Many golfers dream of a hole-in-one, but golfers gathered at the American Cancer Society's upcoming golf and tennis outing will dream a bigger dream — finding a cure for cancer.

The American Cancer Society's 16th annual Golf & Tennis Classic will be played in Mercer County on Monday, June 8, at Greenacres Country Club in Lawrenceville.

More than 160 golfers and tennis players are expected for the event, which is to raise awareness and funds to support lifesaving American Cancer Society research, as well as education, advocacy, and patient service programs in Mercer County.

Golfer registration and lunch will open the event at 11, with shotgun start for golf and tennis at 1. Cocktails and dinner will follow at 6.

Golf registration fees are $350 per person and include greens and cart fees, player gifts, lunch, cocktail reception, dinner, prizes, and awards.

The event will feature several contests, including a $10,000 putting contest, four chances to win a luxury automobile with a hole-in-one on designated holes, and a Pot of Gold contest.

Tennis registration fees are $175 per person and include a round-robin tournament, lunch, cocktail reception, dinner, prizes, and awards.

The event will also provide a special opportunity to honor or memorialized friends and loved ones on "The Dedication Fairway."

For a $25 donation, a flag bearing a loved one's name will be prominently displayed along the fairway at the 18th hole. Flag program participants will also have the opportunity to win 50/50 cash prizes.

The Golf & Tennis Classic is part of the American Cancer Society Golf Championship; and the top two teams in each flight will have the opportunity to advance to the state championship, scheduled for September 24.

Employees at Local Firm Assist at Senior Center

Hanging curtains, cleaning stoves and working in the garden is not considered a typical day of work for employees at Princeton-based William M. Mercer, Inc. However, on June 6, they did just that.

The company's annual event, "Community Connections," places Mercer employees in various charity and community organizations to donate their time and energy — hours that these worthy organizations can't do without.

Mercer employees did a little spring cleaning for individuals through the Princeton Senior Resource Center. Volunteers spent the day with senior residents at both the Redding and Spruce Circle locations, completing various chores they couldn't otherwise handle on their own. Groups of two Mercer employees rotated between apartments, helping the elderly with cleaning, lifting, gardening.

"Our volunteers help these residents with chores they would be unable to do on their own," says Laurie Reiss, "Community Connections" coordinator and marketing director for Mercer. "Not only do the residents appreciate help with household chores, they also enjoy the company."

"This is a win-win situation," states Pat Ostberg, assistant director for the Senior Resource Center. "The residents get their chores done for them and the employees gain insight about seniors and affordable housing.

Some of our residents do not normally have visitors. Through this project, they realize that there are people who care about them."

For more information about Mercer's "Community Connections," contact Laurie Reiss, 520-3733. For more information about the Princeton Senior Resource Center, call Pat Ostberg or Jan Marmor, 252-2362.

OVER THE HURDLE: Callan Solem pilots Quiet Winter Farms' Ears To You to victory in the third annual $10,000 Hunter Farms Jumping Derby, held at Hunter Farms, The Great Road, on June 11.

Summer Learning at MCCC Offers Many Choices

Mercer County Community College's second summer credit session, beginning July 5, offers students an opportunity to earn credits in six weeks.

Classes will meet during the day or evening to accommodate most schedules.

Summer sessions are popular with college students who want to get their degree sooner or make their fall course load easier. Students from other colleges who are home for the summer can earn credits that transfer.

Even high school students who meet the criteria can take courses and get a head start on college.

The July 5 to August 17 session offers 78 choices in accounting, business, chemistry, Internet, programming, speech, computer science, economics, composition, literature, French, history, math, music, networking, political science, sociology, theatre and the visual arts.

To learn more about any summer credit course visit www.mccc.edu, or call 586-0505, or e-mail admiss@mccc.edu.

Resource Center Invites Senior Citizens to Camp

The Princeton Resource Center, together with the Salvation Army, will help send eight financially-eligible Borough and/or Township senior citizen residents to Camp Tecumseh in Pittstown for one week this summer — from July 28 through August 3.

Campers will enjoy three meals daily, participation in crafts, swimming, miniature golf, board games, skits 'n' scats, and shopping at the local mall. Transportation to the camp, located about one hour from Princeton, will be provided.

The subsidized fee for the camp is $50 per person; and reservations are limited. If interested, call the Senior Resource Center, at 924-7108, by June 22.

MCCARTER'S SECOND STAGE: The Regional Planning Board will decide on June 21 whether to grant final approval to the Roger S. Berlind Theatre. To contain 350 seats, the theater will function as a second stage for McCarter and a principal performance space for Princeton University's Program in Theatre and Dance. Architect is Hugh Hardy.

McCarter Addition

120 feet. It will rise to two stories, reaching a height of 66.9 feet. The highest section of the building, accommodating the fly tower, will be adjacent to the existing theater.

Mr. Hardy, a member of the Princeton University Class of 1954, designed the renovation and expansion of New York's New Amsterdam and New Victory theaters, as well as The Wilma Theatre in Philadelphia.

The Berlind Theatre's facade will be a mix of brick of varying textures and colors and precast stone to match the existing McCarter building. The mass of the building walls will be broken by the types and patterns of brick and stone, as well as by a limited number of openings for doors and windows.

Plans for the new theater were announced three years ago, when Broadway producer Roger S. Berlind, a member of the Princeton University Class of 1952, made a $3.5 million gift to support its construction.

An alumnus of Princeton's Triangle Club and Theatre Intime, Mr. Berlind has brought dozens of successful productions to the Broadway stage.

McCarter's traffic consultant, Georges Jacquemart, had suggested striping in University Place to direct traffic flow more to the eastern or outside edge of the arc in University Place as it approaches Alexander Street. Borough Engineer Carl Peters said he did not favor this because it would create a more confusing traffic pattern as well as cause confusion to drivers entering University Place from Alexander Street.

McCarter representatives said that evening and weekend parking for the new theater will be met by present spaces and by Princeton University's new parking garage across University Place. Questions were raised at the meeting about whether there will be sufficient parking when both theaters are presenting performances on the same night.

Mr. Peters said there will not be a problem with parking until the theater's certificate of occupancy is issued. "I am very optimistic we can come up with an acceptable solution," he said as the clock sped past 11. "But we can't come up with it in ten minutes."

The discussion Thursday night also focused on the addition of two new handicapped parking spaces. If seven spaces can be provided in front of the present theater, Mr. Peters said, two additional spaces in University Place should provide sufficient handicapped parking for all events.

He suggested that these be located where the current "Kiss and Run" spaces are situated near the Dinky Station. "I believe that while they are slightly further away from McCarter Theatre, this location offers a more protected location to enter and exit a vehicle. It would also provide convenient parking for railroad use when the theater is not in operation."

If it receives Planning Board approval later this month, the University plans to break ground for the new theater in September. Completion is anticipated in the winter of 2003. Dan Bauer, McCarter Theatre's public relations director, said there has been great community support for the theater's fund-raising campaign.

McCarter Theatre was built in 1929 to provide a permanent home for Princeton University's Triangle Club. In 1973, Princeton University transferred its direct operation of the building to the McCarter Theatre Company.

A $12 million renovation and construction project was completed in 1991. This included renovation of the auditorium, construction of two glass-walled side lobbies, and the addition of offices and dressing rooms.

PLANNING BOARD APPROVES: Coventry Farm will largely be preserved as open space and will include some playing fields. Plans received final approval last week from the Regional Planning Board. The purchase is expected to be finalized on June 26.

active recreation lands will include playing fields, but they will not be lighted nor will public address systems be allnwed.

Twenty-eight acres of woodlands on the eastern side of The Great Road will be dedicated for passive recreation, and 93 acres on this side will have a conservation easement placed upon them. This means that no additional development will be permitted.

Currently existing on a tract on the eastern side are six single-family dwellings and a number of farm buildings. The tract surrounds the home of Janine Winant and is not part of the application. It is expected that farming will continue nn this site.

Attorney Thomas Letizia, representing Coventry Farm, said the plans represent good planning on the part of Mr. Hiller, the public, and the Winant family.

Mr. Hiller noted that he is placing a transparent fence on the eastern side of The Great Road, which will significantly open up the view of the lands. He also mentioned that, before his plan for 66 age-restricted townhouses was superceded, he had heard from 18 potential buyers.

Township Mayor Phyllis Marchand, a strong supporter of the D&R Geenway purchase plan, pointed out that there remains a need for age-restricted homes in Princeton.

"We are indebted to the D&R Geenway for building a partnership to make this happen," said Planning Board Member William Enslin.

The current Princeton Community Master Plan — now in the process of being revised — designated the western tract of Coventry Farm as a future school site. But several years ago the Princeton Regional Board of Education informed the Planning Board thal it did not require this site for future expansion.

The Master Plan also notes that if this site is no longer designated as a future school site, it would be suitable for active recreation. The D&R Greenway plan complies with this.

STUART GRADUATING CLASS: The 30 seniors who graduated from Stuart Country Day School in graduation ceremonies held June 9, in the school's Sundial Garden, heard Sarene Byrne, executive vice president of Forum Corporation and mother of Stuart graduate Catherine Byrne '88. She told the graduates to have courage and "follow your heart."

Stuart Country Day School Confers Diplomas June 9

The 30 members of Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart Class of 2001 received their diplomas on Saturday, June 9, in the school's Sundial Garden from Headmistress Fran de la Chapelle, RSCJ, and Stuart Board of Trustees Chair Pauline Egan.

Cristina Salmastrelli '01 of Lawrenceville gave the welcoming speech. In thanking the teachers she said "... the amazing, inspirational teachers sitting in the first three rows... have taught us more than we can fully comprehend at this moment.

"The knowledge to solve a calculus problem, decipher an x-linked trait or to communicate in an entirely difference language seems amazing — but it is just a part of what we have learned. This group of compassionate and true teachers has also taught us, and modeled for us, to carry ourselves with confidence, grace, dignity and pride."

GRADUATES

Graduating Saturday were Elizabeth Brewster, Cheryl Campbell, Michelle Doobrajh, Aimee Dooling, Sarah Driscoll, Gabrielle Fausel, Krysten Fortunado, Julta Gomez, Anne Grabowski, Natalie Hamill, Natisha Jackson, Allison Keves, Emilie Kitts, Lauren LaTouche, Natasha Leglersky, Erin MacKay, Kathryn Michael, Victoria Millar, Sarah Molinelli, Muna Mombo, Lindsay Moody, Anna Pelczer, Cory Potochar, Sara Rodenas, Zina Rose, Cristina Salmastrelli, Leslie Thompson, Lucinda Trask, Victoria Wiseman, and Holly Zindulis.

The Senior Speakers Cheryl Campbell and Leslie Thompson listed, and then illuminated, what they believe were the ten most significant wise lessons they were taught by their supportive families, dedicated teachers and wise classmates while at Stuart.

The list read: 10. Reflect; 9. Don't recreate the past — it prevents personal progress; 8.Grow forever; 7. Confidence and enthusiasm are wellsprings of success, 6. Be courageous with creativity, 5. Friendship nourishes each of us, 4. Community bonds build strength, 3. Happiness and performance are inextricably linked, 2. Substance is more important than image, and 1. Savor beginnings and ends.

"Today, we celebrate our commencement, our beginning. And — we still have so much to look forward to," they said.

Graduation Speaker

Sarene Byrne was the Graduation Speaker. She is executive vice president of the Forum Corporation and mother of Stuart graduate Catherine Byrne '88 and a past trustee.

She told the students, "You're used to speaking up and you have been encouraged to articulate a strong point of view. Each of you is unique and able.

"Some of you know now what you want to do with your lives. Others of you are excited to explore... to find your careers. You must have the confidence and courage to use your gifts. Have the courage to try things... follow your heart."

Anne Grabowski of Princeton led the seniors in the turning of their rings. Upon receiving rings their junior year, the students wear them with the deer, a school symbol, turned in toward themselves. After receiving their diplomas, they Class of 2001 turned their rings outward to symbolize their commitment to others and to the world for which they have been prepared to give all their talent, skill and faith.

Humorist Garrison Keillor Addresses Princeton Baccalaureate Exercises

Author and comedian Garrison Keillor, weaving funny anecdotes with irreverent but heartfelt advice, urged Princeton University seniors at the June 3 Baccalaureate service to take risks and have fun.

"Today's grievous mistake is tomorrow's humorous anecdote," said Mr. Keillor, who marveled at the idea of a comedian offering the words of wisdom expected of an address to new graduates.

Baccalaureate is an inter-faith service and celebration of seniors receiving their bachelor degrees.

"Most colleges prefer a standard commencement speaker who is eminent in a sort of vague statesmanlike way, so that nobody is particularly mad at him," Mr. Keillor said, "and who will talk about a 'commitment to excellence.'"

"I am not the one to talk to you about the pursuit of excellence," he said in the understated style that he uses on his nationally syndicated radio show A Prairie Home Companion. "Obviously you've done that already. I am here to offer an alternative."

The message of comedy, he said, is like that of the gospels: "Deep down life is a mess, but it's a beautiful mess if you don't take yourself too seriously."

"I think you should all go out and have a beautiful life that includes adventure and romance and some failure and misery and certainly some remorse," he said.

Mr. Keillor told students to avoid comparing themselves to others and to allow themselves to make mistakes. An unquestioning and safe pursuit of possession and status is a recipe for a mid-life crisis, he said. He urged students to get their mid-life crises over with in their 20s rather than their 40s.

"It's amazing how much you can learn if you are lucky enough to get into trouble when you're young. I recommend it to you," Mr. Keillor said as he launched into a rhyming conclusion that began with these lines:

O, brave young navigators setting your course for tomorrow,

Speak kindly to your parents and perhaps you could borrow

Two or three grand and have yourself a beautiful summer,

Lighting candles against the darkness and marching to a different drummer

In Madrid, Paris, St. Petersburg, Machu Picchu,

Learning what the open road has to teach you

And enjoying one last romantic journey

Before becoming internists or patent attorney.

Princeton's Baccalaureate tradition began in 1760 with an address by President Samuel Davies to the 11 members of the graduating class. The University president gave the address until the 1970s, when speakers outside the University were invited.

This year Mr. Keillor spoke to a graduating class of about 1,100 students.

Pennington School Graduates Students from Middle School

The Pennington School held graduation ceremonies for its Middle School at the Pennington United Methodist Church on Thursday, June 7. Thirty-eight students, representing three states and three foreign countries, were graduated.

Middle school faculty member David Lightfoot and headmaster Lyle D. Rigg gave the graduation addresses.

Conor S. Madison of Lawrenceville was salutatorian and also won the award for excellence in Latin I.

An award for being first in scholarship went, for the sixth grade, to Rebecca L. Wardell of Lawrenceville.

Winners of the Faculty Prize for Citizenship were seventh-grader William F. Hackett of Belle Mead; and sixth-grader Evan W. Cox of Princeton.

The Faculty Prize for Most Improved Student was shared for grade eight by Jaclyn S. Davidson and Jason K. Ridings, both of Princeton.

Sixth-grader Jason R. Meyers was recognized for excellence in Latin. Charles M. Yarborough, grade six, of Princeton Junction, received a special award for exceptional effort.

Princeton Day Presents 2001 Alumni Awards

The Princeton Day School 2001 Alumni Award was presented to Deborah Hobler, class of 1966, for her work promoting breast cancer awareness.

For nearly 25 years, she has been in the field of cancer as a social workers health educator, writer, and lecturer educating cancer survivors, health professionals and the public about the impact of cancer on people's lives, their self esteem and their families.

The Alumni Service Award is given to a Princeton Day School alumna or alumnus whose efforts to give back to the community and reflect the highest ideals of the school and who inspire others through his or her example of sensitivity or generosity.

In 1990 Ms. Hobler published a book that offers insights for patients to help find hope in a cancer diagnosis, No Less a Woman: Femininity, Sexuality & Breast Cancer.

It is a collection of the medical and spiritual journeys ten women faced after they were diagnosed with breast cancer.

She has also created educational programs for the American Cancer Society, spoken at cancer conferences, provided group and individual support services to cancer patients, consulted with cancer care agencies, and most recently helped establish the Breast Resource Center in Santa Barbara, Calif., where she lives.

In 1977, when she earned a masters degree in social work from the University of Hawaii, she was interested in working in the public health field, focusing on women's health issues. After graduation, she began working for the American Cancer Society developing breast cancer programs for health professionals.

Three years later she was diagnosed with breast cancer. She was 31 years old, and realized that her knowledge about the disease is what saved her.

PDS ALUMNI SERVICE AWARD: Deborah Holder, Princeton Day School class of 1966, received the school's Alumni Association Alumni Service Award. She is with Newell Thompson, class of 1982, outgoing president of the association.

"Breast cancer was a quiet disease women did not talk about," Ms. Hobler said. She knew that early detection was crucial and decided to start working to dispel the myths that surrounded breast cancer.

"It is a gift to have this much time," she said, now 20 years since her diagnosis and successful lumpectomy and radiation treatment of early-stage breast cancer.

Ms. Hobler grew up in a large, extended family, many of whom live in Princeton. Her older brother, Randy Hobler, graduated with the Princeton Country Day class of 1961, and her sister Mary Hobler Hyson, with PDS '68. Her youngest sister, Nancy Hobler Callaghan, attended PDS with the class of 1974.

Achievement Award

Richard Funkhouser PCD '32 received the Princeton Day School 2001 Alumni Achievement Award this year for his outstanding career in the Foreign Service. He entered the Foreign Service Bureau in 1945 and over the course of his career served in posts in Paris, Cairo, Bucharest and Moscow before being appointed as the Ambassador to Gabon in Africa.

During his career he served in high-position posts such as Petroleum Officer for the entire Middle East, Political Counselor in Paris, Economic Counselor in Moscow and Consul General in Scotland.

He said his curiosity for faraway places was born of hours spent as a boy pouring over his grandfather's set of National Geographic magazines.

After graduation from Princeton he went to work for Standard Oil in Venezuela, became a decorated WW2 pilot in BurmaChina for dropping men and supplies behind enemy lines, and entered the Foreign Service as a petroleum expert.

He later held a position in the Saigon Military Region during the Vietnam War where he worked for the Civil Operations and Rural Development Support, more commonly known as the CORDS program. As a result of that service, he was awarded a National Service Medal for his assistance to the Vietnamese who were trying to build the infrastructure of the country.

New Police Captain

where I want to be," he said. "I took the Borough test, and luckily, I've had a great career here. I thought it would be a fun career for me, and it has been."

He joined the Borough Police Department on January 2, 1980, the same day as Captain Davall. Both men were candidates for the position of captain after the retirement of Peter Hanley last year. The competition didn't taint their friendship.

"We're best friends," Lt. Federico said of Captain Davall. "Working with Chuck has been nothing but great."

"The hard part was going head to head with a true friend," said Captain Davall. "We went step for step together with promotions in our career. From day one we've been friends. The promotional process made it difficult competing against him.

Different Role

Now Lieutenant Federico is preparing once again to take on a different role.

"Essentially the captain is second in command under the chief," he explained. "The administrative duties are split between the two lieutenants and the captain. We do the same type of work, depending on our assignments.

"I may be commander of different areas after I become captain. As captain I may be administrative officer in charge of different areas. I know I'll be in purchasing and personnel. I'm also going to be working in the Office of Emergency Management."

Lieutenant Federico is currently in charge of support services, computer, communications, recording, and radio systems, and the National Crime Information Center. He is also in charge of the department's memorabilia committee.

The committee designed and had a special cabinet built. The cabinet, which rests in the lobby behind the dispatcher's station, will include historical items from the Borough Police Department such as plaques and photographs from as far back as the 1800's. It is a symbol of what each employee has meant to the department.

Memorable Moments

Speaking of memories, Lieutenant Federico reflected upon some of the most memorable moments of his career. One of these is the November 6, 1997 bank robbery of the Sovereign Bank on Nassau Street.

The robbery occurred after the bank's walk-up window closed at 6 p.m. One of the three robbers was shot dead by Borough police as he held a gun to the head of a hostage. The other two, who had escaped with a hostage and $140,000, were eventually apprehended.

"I was heavily involved in the fugitive portion of it [bank robbery], he said. "I worked 20 hour days until the two remaining fugitives were caught."

He said events like the Sovereign Bank robbery are emotionally difficult for all involved, especially when officers are forced to shoot another person.

"It gets to you," he said. "Any day we could be called upon to respond to a call that could take someone's life."

A second memorable event that stands out in Lt. Federico's mind is the October 18, 1999 shooting at the Merwick Unit of the Medical Center. An employee there was shot by her estranged husband three times just after arriving for work at 7 a.m. The gunman was captured in Florida on April 3, 2000.

"I was involved with fugitive tracking during the first couple of days there," he said. "That was a 24-hour operation until we finished. When you're involved in an important case, it's not an eight hour day."

As much as he loves the job, Lieutenant Federico said it's good to get away sometimes, especially after being on call for an entire week.

"Currently I work three days of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and two days of 1 to 9 p.m.," he said. "We're on call every three weeks. During your on-call week, you have to come in on the weekend and check reports. Any problem that arises has to be handled. You're also called at night, and awakened during the middle of the night. It's kind of nice being away once in awhile."

Saying Goodbye

While the promotion to captain is exciting for Lieutenant Federico, it's also bittersweet saying goodbye to another good friend, Chief Michaud.

"I can't say enough about him," he commented. "He is a terrific leader. Working with him has truly taught me the meaning of professionalism."

Both Captain Davall and Lieutenant Federico plan to use the same philosophy as Chief Michaud after his retirement.

"It's hard to say goodbye to the chief, but Tony and I are looking forward to the future here with the two of us guiding the department," said Captain Davall.

"It's been an excellent career, and continues to be an excellent career," said Lieutenant Federico. "Overall it's been terrific."

Postdoc Fellowships Are Announced By the University

The Princeton University Center for the Study of Religion has announced its 2001-2002 Visiting Fellows.

The Center brings a limited number of fellows to Princeton each year in conjunction with its thematic projects, its research projects, and its support of younger scholars studying religion.

The fellows, who are appointed as research associates, devote time to servicing the intellectual life of the Center and the University through co-teaching seminars offered in conjunction with the thematic projects, mentoring graduate and undergraduate students, and participating in the Center's weekly interdisciplinary seminar.

This year's fellows are:

Anthea D. Butler received the Ph.D. in American religious history from Vanderbilt University and is currently assistant professor of Theological Studies at Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles. At Princeton she will work to revise for publication her dissertation, "A Peculiar Synergy:

Matriarchy and the Church of God in Christ." The project chronicles the inception of the Women's Department of the Church of God in Christ, the largest African-American Pentecostal denomination, and focuses on the role of the Church Mother.

Rosemary Polanin Carbine holds the Ph.D. in Theology from the University of Chicago. She is one of two postdoctoral fellows supported by the Program in Public Theology.

She comes to Princeton to revise for publication her dissertation, entitled "Becoming Persons of Accountability: A Feminist Theological Anthropology for Theological Education." Her project analyzes the ways in which contemporary programs in ministerial training go about the task of educating church leaders to engage in public theology.

Deidre Helen Crumbley received the Ph.D. in Anthropology from Northwestern University and also holds a Masters of Theological Studies from Harvard Divinity School.

She is currently assistant professor of Africana Studies at North Carolina State University. She has completed a book manuscript entitled "Spirit and Structure: Institution-Building and Gender Practices in Three African Churches," submitted for publication.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Tod Peyton

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE?

Sometimes there are defects in a house that the homeowners no longer notice, such as small leaks in the roof or a basement that only gets damp when it rains. When the house is on the market, they don't have a real sense of urgency about having such defects repaired. The Realtor feels quite differently, however.

When buyers are deciding which houses deserve serious consideration, any kind of water problem may appear to be much more serious than it really is. The sellers may regard a damp basement as simply a sign that it's time to clean the gutters or check the soil buildup around the house or a leaking roof as a call for new flashing. But to someone who has never owned a home, these defects can be taken as signs that the house may not fulfill their primary need for shelter from "the elements." People may be perfectly willing to rent a home with minor water problems, but they are likely to pass up the same house if they think it won't keep them perfectly dry.

For dependable, individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton. .

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below. Please ask about: Lower Downpayments • Lower Monthly Payments • Other Options. For purchase prices up to $343,750 monthly mortgage payments (principal + interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 6.625% with 3 points. A.P.R. 6.978% As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $640.31. For purchase prices from $343,751 to $812,500, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 6.875% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 7.188%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $3,284.64.
